Don't Talk, GI Witnesses Told

By The Associated Press

A military judge has ordered potential witnesses in the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. on charges of murdering 109 South Vietnamese civilians to discuss their evidence only with principals in the trial.

Meanwhile, Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor and his general counsel, Robert Jordan, said Tuesday they would tell the Senate Armed Services Committee what the Army knows of the alleged massacre of civilians at My Lai, South Vietnam, on March 16, 1968.

Lt. Col. Reid Kennedy, senior trial judge at Ft. Benning, Ga., where Calley will be court-martialed, ordered Tuesday that the prosecution notify all potential witnesses of the restriction on public disclosures.

Kennedy handed Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, the prosecutor, an order that said in part: "Each witness will be informed that he is authorized to discuss or disclose information or real evidence to you, Mr. George Latimer, Maj. Kenneth A. Raby and 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. only."

Latimer is Calley's civilian counsel and Maj. Raby the military defense counsel.

Kennedy's order came at a hearing where prosecution and defense counsels asked him to ban news interviews with persons who might testify at the court martial.

Kennedy said he would allow "a reasonable time" for news media to impose self-restraints that would assure an impartial trial.

Calley, 26, was charged with the premeditated murder of 109 civilians, including women and children, after public disclosure of letters and interviews with persons who said they were eyewitnesses to or participants in the My Lai incident.

Some accounts have placed the number of civilians killed in My Lai as high as 567.

Disposition Of Warfare Germ Stocks Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials say President Nixon's order junking U.S. military germ stocks will require elaborate safety precautions which may stretch the disposal operation over several months.

The Defense Department expressed hope Tuesday that elimination of germ warfare components can be completed "well within a year." The Department of Health, Education and Welfare will assist in the disposal.

The highly poisonous nature, rather than a huge volume, of the biological stocks is the main problem, officials said.

The Pentagon has not yet stripped the secret label from documents showing how much bacteria there is to destroy, but sources speak in terms of "bucketsful" and pounds, rather than tons.

However, as little as a thimbleful of such lethal bacteria as anthrax or plague is capable of killing thousands of persons over a wide area.

The President's announcement of the planned disposal Tuesday climaxed a six-month review of the American chemical and biological warfare—CBW — program.

The commander-in-chief said the United States will confine its biological research to defensive measures such as immunization. And, in the chemical field, he pledged that this nation would never be the first to use lethal or incapacitating gases.

Nixon's reference to eliminating "existing stocks of bacteriological weapons" made Pentagon information officers squirm since the department has repeatedly told reporters that the United States does not stock germ weapons.

"We have no biological weapons as such," the Pentagon asserted after the President had spoken. "We do have certain biological agents in storage containers."

Locations of the germs, as well as the size of the stored quantities, are still secret. But the Pentagon said that since disposal has been ordered the information will be declassified for public release.

Policeman For Christmas City Area 'Package'

DETROIT (AP)—Residents of Detroit's crime-troubled seventh precinct are going to get a cop for Christmas this year.

On Dec. 1, 179 volunteers will start providing extra police protection in the precinct.

Each of the policemen has donated one day to the precinct and the net result will mean five extra patrolmen on the streets throughout the 6.8-mile inner city precinct every day.

The unsolicited gesture by members of the force—believed to be without precedent in the nation—has two aims. Officers say they hope the volunteer hours will help reduce crime and at the same time will strengthen police-community relations.

"This gift represents an untold saving to the community in lives, goods and services," said Inspector Olson T. Tetreault, precinct commander. Tetreault said the crime rate always increases during the Christmas season because people carry more cash and keep packages in their homes.

Officials said the 1,200 hours being donated by the policemen would cost the city some $11,000 if the men had been ordered out on an overtime basis.

The Seventh Precinct, with about 90,000 residents, has the second highest crime rate in the city. The Detroit riot of 1967 spread into the precinct.

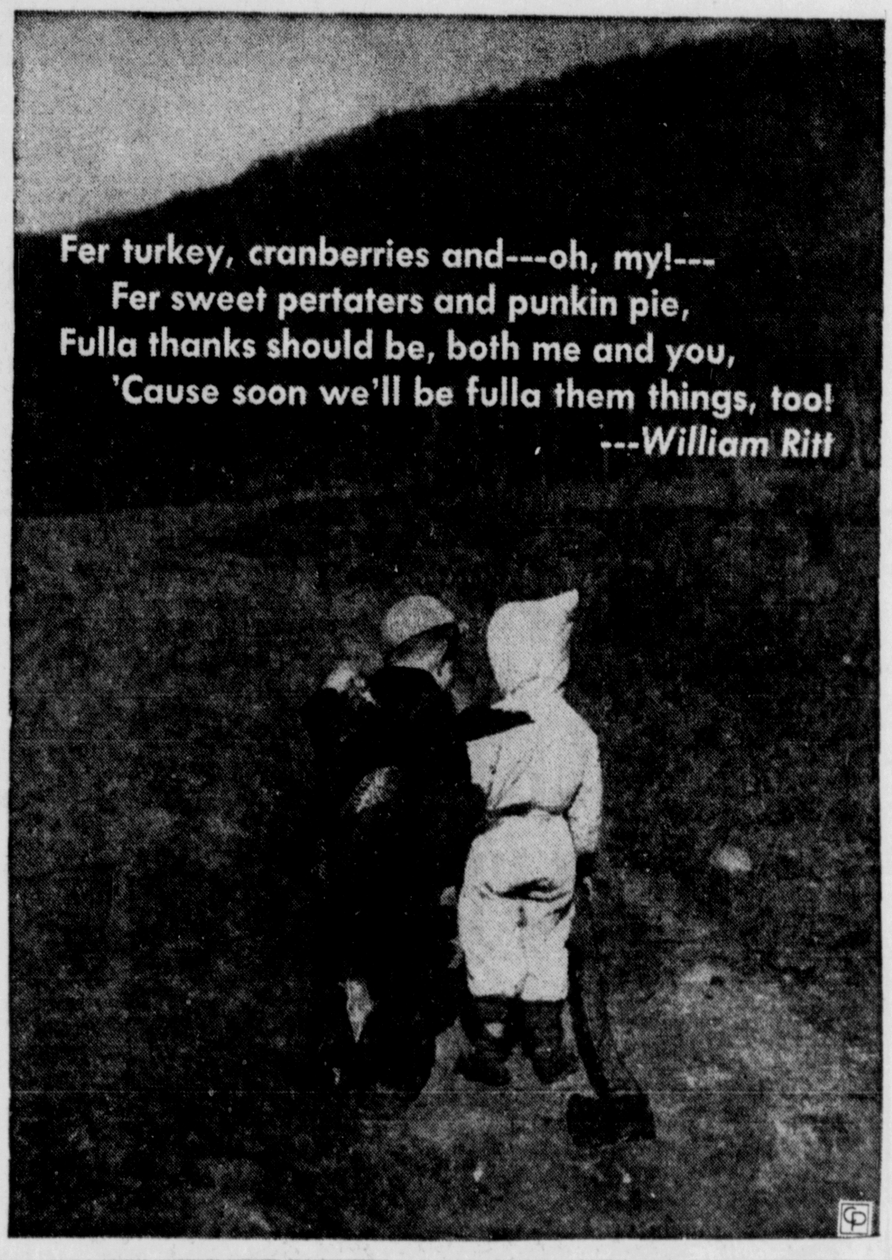
Patrolman Joseph Whall dreamed up the gift and announced it Tuesday at the precinct headquarters. Whall, a union representative for the Detroit Police Officers Association, likened it to the Biblical gift of gold the three wise men gave the Christ child.

Bishop Quitting Late Show Race

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — "About a week ago," comedian Joey Bishop deadpannned, "I asked ABC, 'Could I have a little time off?' But this is ridiculous."

That was Bishop's way of telling a studio audience Tuesday night that what he got was all the time in the world—he and ABC are terminating his 2½-year-old talk show.

Bishop then walked out of the studio, only minutes after the start of taping of a show to be broadcast tonight, saying he couldn't compete in "this kind of three-way race" against NBC's Johnny Carson and Merv Griffin of CBS.



'Tennessee Fiddler' Has GOP Dancing To His Tune

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of a coming Senate battle over increasing personal income tax exemptions is a onetime fiddler from the Tennessee hills who has been busy lately doing his political thing—upsetting the White House.

In fact, Democrat Albert Gore has upset the administration so much that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew singled him out earlier this month as the No. 1 Republican target in next year's elections.

Habit Of Winning

"But I have a habit of winning," says the silver-haired veteran of seven terms in the House and three in the Senate.

Besides his long string of victories at the polls, Gore says he is proudest of successfully shepherding the medicare and the interstate highway system bills through the Senate.

And he made it clear in an interview he does not expect his winning habit to end in defeat either in his drive to amend the tax reform bill or at the polls in Tennessee next fall.

Claiming almost solid Democratic support, Gore rated his chances "good, very good" for Senate approval next week of an amendment to increase the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $1,000. Among those supporting the amendment, introduced late Tuesday, are Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

Similar Move Fails

A similar move failed by a tie vote in the Senate Finance Committee whose chairman, Russell B. Long, D-La., is expected to put up vigorous opposition on the floor.

The White House is dead set against increasing the personal exemption. But the depth of Republican support of the President was difficult to gauge as members scattered for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Although Gore said he agreed with most provisions of the tax measure, he proposed several alternative approaches to key sections in a 65-page report.

Increasing the personal exemption was the chief one.

Explosion Hits Cavalry Ammo

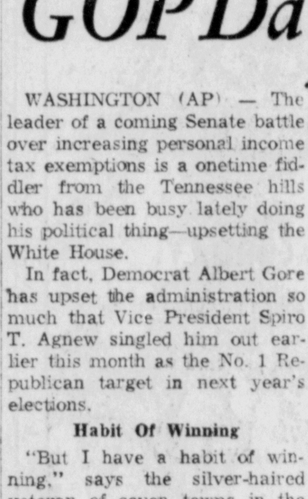
SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops attacked a U.S. armored cavalry camp near the Cambodian border early today and blew up tons of ammunition which caused heavy damage to tanks, armored personnel carriers, artillery and other equipment.

"Most of the damage and casualties were caused by ammunition exploding," said one U.S. officer. He said the attackers opened up about three hours before dawn with small arms and armor-piercing rocket grenades. Some grenades slammed into seven loaded ammunition trailers, touching off chains of explosions. But the North Vietnamese did not break through the camp perimeter, the American officer said.

A search around the camp 64 miles northwest of Saigon turned up three enemy bodies, a U.S. spokesman said. One American was killed and 24 wounded.

About 100 Americans from Headquarters Troop, 3rd Squadron, 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment were defending the base camp while other units patrolled in the area 10 miles south of the Cambodian border.

More than a dozen pieces of equipment, including 155mm howitzers and armored personnel carriers rigged as ammunition carriers were reported destroyed. A few Sheridan tanks and personnel carriers were reported damaged.



JOHN WALRATH, 30, a 1969 graduate of Fort Wayne Bible College, appeared before a U. S. Commissioner Tuesday in Hammond, Ind., on charges of kidnaping Timmy Martin, 6. Today's Chuckle

Procrastination is the thief of time. So is every other big word.

Continuance Of Surcharge OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Extension of the income tax surcharge at a 5 per cent rate for the first half of 1970 now seems assured if the big tax reform bill becomes law this year.

The Senate voted Tuesday, 49-28, to retain a provision extending the surtax six months beyond its scheduled Dec. 31 expiration date.

Debate Continues

Although the Senate agreed to take no more votes until it returns next Monday from a Thanksgiving holiday, the debate continued today with a controversial oil depletion allowance amendment as the pending business.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., is sponsoring the amendment which would restore the 27½ per cent depletion allowance which has been in effect more than 40 years. The House voted to cut this benefit to 20 per cent and the Senate Finance Committee set the figure at 23 per cent.

Ellender's amendment will be the first item voted on next week unless it is displaced in some fashion.

Extension Settled?

Extension of the surtax appeared to be settled by Tuesday's voting because the House also included such a provision in the version of the bill it passed Aug. 7. Thus the issue would not even be a question to be settled in the conference between the two branches to work out the final form of the legislation.

However, if the Senate does not complete action on the bill in the 1969 session the surcharge extension might be reconsidered.

Victory For Nixon

The Senate vote was a victory for President Nixon who strongly supported the extension as part of his anti-inflation fight.

The 10 per cent surtax expired June 30 this year but Congress voted a six-months extension to Dec. 31 at Nixon's urgent request. He asked for the further continuance at 5 per cent.

Governor May Veto Education Reform Bill

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken indicated today he might veto his own billion-dollar school aid bill for next year if the Legislature does not pass basic reform bills at the same time.

He also indicated he has not ruled out calling the Legislature into a special Christmas time session if it adjourns without substantial action.

"We will not have achieved education reform if the only action is on a school aid bill backed by certin revenue measures," Milliken said at a morning news conference. "I have made that clear to leadership and I want to continue to make it clear."

A revised $1.008 billion school aid bill recently was passed by the Senate after deletion of some $27 million from Milliken's proposal.

Bills to repeal the property tax credit against the income tax and revoke certain exemptions from the state sales and use taxes also were passed.

"I'm not going to name the price for a school aid bill," Milliken said, "but it will have to be something more than simple passage of two or three bills."

The use of a veto "is always a possibility," Milliken said.

"Simply to move ahead and adopt a very large school aid bill without adequate revenue would be a very foolish thing to do," he added.

If the legislature passes a school aid bill, Milliken indicated he might demand "assurance" that other measures would follow shortly behind it.

"There must be concrete movement so they arrive at my desk as a package," Milliken said.

Hearing Scheduled Over Sylvania Tract

MARQUETTE (AP)—A U.S. District Court hearing is scheduled here Dec. 9 to determine whether a preliminary injunction should be issued forbidding destruction of the "wilderness character" of 19,000 acres of federal land in Gogebic County.

Nineteen individuals and three conservation groups filed the suit in an effort to prevent federal officials from carrying out their plans to develop the Sylvania section of the Ottawa National Forest along the Michigan-Wisconsin border.

Court Suit Filed

The suit filed Nov. 12 also seeks a declaratory judgment to prevent cutting of timber, trees and shrubs in the area and to bar construction of roads.

It also contains a request for an injunction forbidding anything "which would be destructive of the wilderness character of the area."

The government filed a detailed recreational development plan for the area last November. The land was purchased by the government in 1967.

Fear Tourist Influx

However, the plaintiffs contend that the government's plan would bring "800,000 tourists, campers and motor-boaters and snowmobilers in this tiny area thereby destroying its wilderness character."

Plaintiffs Listed

They also claim that the plan violates the spirit of the Wilderness Act approved by Congress in 1964. And, they contend there is a right "of the public to have such areas preserved as wilderness. . . ."

The plaintiffs, who include the Michigan Audubon Society, Wisconsin Resource Conservation Council and the Wisconsin Ecological Society, asked for an injunction against the plan until it can be studied further.

The 10-page complaint also lists 19 individual plaintiffs, most of them Wisconsin residents. Several of the individuals are identified as conservation leaders.

Defendants in the suit are U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin; Edward P. Cliff, chief of the U.S. Forest Service; Ralph Kizer, supervisor of the Ottawa National Forest, and Marsh Lefler, district supervisor for that portion of the forest.

Lid Coming Off Treasure Chest

SPACE CENTER, Houston — (AP) — Scientists open the first treasure chest of Apollo 12 moon rocks today as the quarantined astronauts who collected them head for Hawaii aboard their recovery ship.

Working with gloves that extend into a vacuum chamber, technicians at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory here planned to lift a lid on the first of two rock boxes filled on the moon's Ocean of Storms.

The two containers were flown to the Manned Spacecraft Center Tuesday from American Samoa where they had been taken from Apollo 12's recovery ship, the USS Hornet.

The first box, with about 28 pounds of lunar material inside, was bathed with acid to wash off any earthly contaminant then moved into the vacuum chamber.

The second box, containing the most carefully selected samples and the core tubes driven into the moon to tell scientists how lunar soil is structured, was to be opened Thursday or Friday.

Daylight Savings Time Pushed By State Group

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce is spearheading a drive in another try to put Michigan on Daylight Savings Time during the summer months.

Harry R. Hall, chamber president, said the group hopes to collect at least 400,000 signatures in the petition campaign. Only 197,000 signatures are needed to put the issue before the Legislature.

Hall said the goal is to get more than twice that number for a safe margin to allow for errors.

Repeal Sought

The petitions will ask the Legislature to repeal a state law which exempts Michigan from moving clocks ahead to Daylight Savings Time for the six-month period from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

The petitions have to be filed with the Secretary of State's office by Jan. 2. They must be presented to the Legislature at least 10 days before the start of the 1970 session, on Jan. 14.

If the lawmakers reject or fail to act on the proposal, the issue still would go on the November, 1970, election ballot for a decision by the voters.

Rejected Year Ago

Daylight Savings Time was rejected by a narrow margin in a state referendum a year ago.

The state chamber has a uniform time committee sponsoring the fast time campaign. Thomas R. Reid of Dearborn, a Ford Motor Co. executive, is chairman of the committee.

Hall said others in the petition drive include the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, retailers and food association groups and "25 or 30 other local chambers from Sault Ste. Marie on down through the state."

The state chamber is acting as a clearing house for distributing the some 50,000 petition forms and collecting the signed petitions.

48,000 Petitions

Hall said more than 48,000 petitions already are in circulation throughout the state, mostly in the southwestern area.

Expenses of the drive are being financed by interested business organizations and not from chamber dues, Hall added.

Michigan was one of three states in the nation which did not observe Daylight Savings Time this year. The others were Arizona and Hawaii.

Hall said if Legislature does not act favorably on the proposal, the chamber will wage "a much more active drive for voter approval."

Inconvenience Noted

"Now after one summer of not having Daylight Savings Time, business and others know how inconvenient and in some cases how expensive it can be when they are not on the same relative time with other states," he said.

A major group opposed to the time switch is the Michigan Farm Bureau. Farmers say moving clocks ahead results in inconvenience to farm work schedules, cutting down valuable working time in the late afternoon during crop and fruit harvesting seasons.

Backstopping the petition drive, Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, has introduced a constitutional amendment proposal to declare Michigan in Eastern Time Zone but subject to Daylight Savings Time during the six-month period.

Road Opened

LANSING (AP) — A slightly more than three-mile section of the nearly 12-mile portion on I 496 serving Lansing, East Lansing and Michigan State University was opened to traffic Tuesday. A 1904 curved-dash Oldsmobile participated in the dedication ceremony. Highway department officials attending included state highway director Henrik Stafseth and Wallace Nunn of East Tawas, vice chairman of the highway commission.

Wild Turkey Flourish Near Shakey Lakes Area

By BOB GREGG

Since the first Thanksgiving Day in 1621 when Pilgrim hunters bagged enough wild turkey for everybody to eat, the population of wild turkey in the eastern United States has been declining steadily.

Recently, however, modern conservation and game management programs are helping to restore the wild turkey in areas where he was once found plentiful.

One of these areas where conservation biologists are trying to restore the wild turkey is in Menominee County.

In March of 1965, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) released 18 wild turkeys in the Shakey Lakes area about 10 miles northwest of Stephenson. According to district game biologist Ivan Thompson, the birds now number between 80 and 90 in the Menominee County area. "We've had an occasional spotting in the Escanaba district, but we believe most of the birds can be found in Menominee County," Thompson said.

No Timber — No Birds

Wild turkey, once found in almost every area of the eastern United States, disappeared from this range as the result of heavy timber cutting. Biologists say these big birds must have vast stands of timber in order to survive.

Now that some areas have become re-forested, hunters have put pressure on local conservation people to have wild turkey reestablished in their area for hunting purposes. "If the population continues to go up and the birds spread out it might be possible to have a short hunting season to trim the flock, but so far this hasn't happened," Thompson said. He added that he didn't think there would be a U. P. turkey hunting season in the near future.

Thompson said the purpose of the original turkey planting was to fill suitable habitat and see if the turkey would become numerous enough to have a huntable population. "However, we don't have a large enough amount of birds in a wide enough area to allow a hunting harvest," he said, explaining why no turkey hunting has been allowed.

U. P. WILD TURKEYS need vast areas in which to roam. They also need a well forested area and a nearby water supply.

Turkey Wander

A similar stocking in the Lower Peninsula was extremely successful and has provided a short, but productive, hunting season for some of the state's luckier hunters who have been allowed, through a lottery, to hunt these big woodland game birds.

Not all areas of the U. P. are suitable for turkey habitat. Turkey need vast acreage of timbered land and a nearby source of water is a "must." Good forested land, without water, no matter how good in food production is not suited for the wild turkey.

According to experts, turkey populations vary, like many other wildlife species, in relationship to the food supply. A bad year for young grass seedlings and berry crops usually mean a drop in the wild turkey population.

Everyone knows what a turkey looks like, but very few can tell the difference between a wild turkey and a domestic bird.

First of all, you will probably never find a domestic turkey out in the woods. They wouldn't survive very long there. There are, however, several other distinguishing characterictics. The wild turkey are generally dark-colored birds, slenderer, and having skinnier legs than their dimestic counterpart. The tail of the domestic bird has a bit of white either at the tip or the covert or both, while the tail of the wild bird is brown.

Sex Difference

Male turkeys are known as gobblers. They are darker colored and generally larger birds than the female or hen turkey. The spurs on hen turkey are inconspicuous, but are clearly visible on the gobbler. Most of all, the gobbler is easily distinguished by his obvious beard, sometimes five or six inches long.

Wild turkey need lots of room. An individual flock of birds may travel several miles in a single day in its normal feeding pattern. Experts point out that the average turkey needs at least 5,000 acres of forested or semi-forested land in which to roam. Ideally, 15,000 to 50,000 acres is preferred.

Although Thompson says the turkey population in his district does scatter a little throughout the year, the birds tend to flock together most of the time. "Every fall, the flock gathers in the Shakey Lakes area for the winter," he said.

"Wild turkey usually do a lot of roaming, but these birds we have here just haven't spread out," said Thompson. "They stick to their own little niche."

Winters can be tough on wild turkeys, but Thompson says his Menominee flock have survived quite well. "Hard winters, which we thought might wipe out the whole flock, haven't seemed to take a very heavy toll of these strong birds," he pointed out.

County Citizens Helpful

Since the first stocking back in '65, the citizens of Menominee County have taken the big wild birds under their wings. "They've been a great help to our management program," Thompson said. "They have assisted us (the DNR) on turkey counts and surveys every year since the initial stocking," he added.

Thanks to hard-working game biologists someday U. P. hunters will once again be able to plan a turkey shoot for Thanksgiving Day dinner just like the Pilgrims did in Massachusetts over three hundred years ago.

If those big Menominee birds grow fast and multiply more that day may be very soon.

Advance Expense Checks Awarded State Employes

LANSING (AP) — The State Commerce Department, first state agency to be allowed to provide travel advances, wrote 66 checks for employes Tuesday, department director Richard Whitmer reported.

A legislative act authoriztd the travel advances for the department upon the suggestion of John Q. Adamson, finance director of the department's liquor control division.

Adamson said he proposed the advances because the delay in recovering money spent on state business was a hardship for many employes, especially those at the lower levels.

"We found that advance travel payments are made by most businesses and the federal government as well," Adamson said. "They don't require their employes to finance their own travel."

Any employe who anticipates his expenses will exceed $100 during a four-week period may apply for an advance of $100 or more.

Most of the employes who received the first advances work for the department's insurance bureau, financial institutions bureau, liquor commission and public service commission. They included bank examiners, auditors and others required to travel regularly on state business.

Hart Asking End Of Foreign Oil Import Quota

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ending the quota on foreign oil imports would reduce the price of gasoline about 5 cents a gallon says Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

Hat predicted continued high consumer prices if the quota system is retained.

"The American people would, I am sure, be far more willing to bear the excessive costs if the import control program were accomplishing its stated objectives," Hart said in a statement for release today.

"But the evidence reveals that it has been a failure," he said. "From the standpoint of national security alone the question can fairly be raised as to whether the country can tolerate continuance of the quota."

He said the system has not assured a large, safe domestic oil supply.

He said the quota has hampered industrial growth of the Mid Atlantic region, New England, the Great Lakes area, the South Atlantic states and Hawaii.

"The ten years of the program have already cost the consumes an estimated $40 billion to $50 billion," he said.

Hart suggested ending the quota be coupled to "some form of direct rewards to those who actually add to our domestic reserves."

Special Aid To State Schools Lansing Topic

LANSING (AP)—As expected, court arguments planned Tuesday were postponed in favor of more talks about guidelines for special state aid to schools in areas suffering cultural and economic deprivation.

However, it appears distribution of the appropriated $8.7 million scheduled next Monday may be delayed a few days. Although expressing optimism, Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, says the money will not be distributed until he reaches agreement with state officials. Swallow holds a temporary injunction as a lever.

A hearing had been set Tuesday before the full panel of Ingham County circuit judges to determine whether that injunction against distribution of the money should be made permanent.

Swallow said this was postponed — as he indicated last week it would be — because "substantial progress" was being made in talks aimed at settling the matter out of court.

Swallow obtained the temporary injunction earlier this month after challenging a State Board of Education rule which did not recognize poor, nonmigrant whites as "underprivileged children." The category is one of five used in calculating points for the special aid.

The suit was on behalf of a student in a northern Michigan school which did not earn enough points to qualify for the available funds.

The House then approved an additional $1.5 million, so that all schools which applied would receive funds. The matter still needs Senate approval. The earliest the Senate could consider it is next Tuesday.

However, Swallow also wants the board to redefine "underprivileged children" and make other adjustments so that more consideration will be given to northern Michigan schools in the future.

Swallow is attempting to exact this price in return for not pressing a court test. The attorney general's office is representing the board in talks with Swallow.

Honor Arntzen For Community Service

The Escanaba Area Chamber of Commerce award for service to the community was presented to Erling Arntzen, 1516 Lake Shore Drive, at the meeting of the Rotary Club at the House of Ludington Tuesday noon.

Thomas Straebel, president of the Rotary Club, made the presentation to Arntzen on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce; Frank Bourke of the Rotary Club gave a tribute to Arntzen; and the Chamber of Commerce was represented by Walter Lewke, manager.

Arntzen responded with comments of appreciation, said that he was "overwhelmed" by the award, and recalled some amusing incidents related to community service projects.

Bourke described Arntzen as "the original good guy" and listed some of Arntzen's contributions to the community through the years as a building contractor and businessman — "a career studded with outstanding achievements and unselfish participation in community service."

'Left His Mark'

"He's a past president of Rotary; he was a board member and president of the Chamber of Commerce; member of the Board of the Escanaba Industrial Foundation; chairman of the Board of Managers of the U. P. State Fair; and he is one of the organizers of Project Pride — that uniue group that built the Chamber of Commerce building and the Kennedy School for Retarded Children."

Arntzen's continuing interest in community affairs includes Delta County Historical Society Board of Directors, treasurer of the organization, and supervision of the construction of the Historical Museum addition.

"If there's a job to be done, Erling goes after it and doesn't look for credit afterwards, although he is usually deserving of the lion's share," said Bourke.

In his profession as a builder, Arntzen "has left his mark all over," Bourke added.

"It's a rare Delta County citizen who doesn't spend part of his life in an Arntzen structure — starting with St. Francis Hospital, built by Erling's father."

From The Cradle

"Trace the life of a child born there," Bourke continued. "The chances are he'll be baptized in an Arntzen church; he'll get his education in an Arntzen school; when he marries he will very probably have the ceremony in an Arntzen church; he will definitely have gotten the marriage license in the Arntzen court house; and get his unemployment check in the Arntzen state building."

Bourke listed other structures that have been constructed by Arntzen through the years, in Delta County and in Oconto, Marinette, Menominee and Manistique.

Before the presentation to Arntzen, a report on the Rotary Club international service project was given by Robert Mosenfelder, chairman. Each year Rotary hosts a student from another country, and Mosenfelder suggested that Escanaba Rotary may wish to sponsor the visit of a local young person to another country as an "outgoing" aspect of the program.

Other 50th anniversary projects (the club will observe its 50th birthday in May, 1970) suggested by Mosenfelder include sponsorship of a student or students at Summer Science Camp next year.

Dartmouth's football team allowed only 19 points in winning its first four games this season.

Store Robbed In Iron River

IRON RIVER — Two men robbed the Montgomery Ward catalog store Tuesday, taking $225 and a portable television set.

Sgt. Robert Peterson of the Michigan state police post in Iron River said the men confronted the assistant manager, Mrs. Edna Rousseau, with a gun.

Mrs. Rousseau, two other employes and two customers were ordered to the washroom and locked in. They were released a few minutes later when another staff member returned to the store, officers said.

The men remained at large today.

Witnesses described the getaway car as a green and white, 1957-model Mercury bearing Wisconsin license plates. Police road blocks setup throughout the Upper Peninsula and northern Wisconsin failed to turn up any sign of the men or the car.

The Unselfish Ones:

Project Pride Ends Decade Of Service

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Project Pride — a committee that in 10 years inspired the Escanaba community to noteworthy achievements—is phasing out.

Outstanding accomplishments included the construction of the Chamber of Commerce building and the John F. Kennedy School for retarded children.

The group of civic-minded men not connected with any organization or branch of government got together and organized in the late summer of 1959. Walter Arntzen is general chairman and the committee members included:

Donald Brandt, secretary-treasurer; Erling Arntzen, R. G. Beck, Claude H. Bohn, Hubert Boudreau, Alfred Brandt, James Degnan, Wilfred LaFleur, John Lemmer, Harry Needham, Charles Neumeier, M. R. Oslund and Thomas X. Quinn.

Many Helping Hands

Back in 1959 Jack Schwartz, then Escanaba Chamber of Commerce manager, returned from a trip to Marquette with glowing reports of the success in construction of a Chamber building there.

"If they can do it — so can we," vowed Tom Quinn, outgoing president of the Escanaba Chamber. Meetings were called, interest grew, and a local banker asked incredulously: "Are you guys out of your minds?"

The group persevered under the leadership of Erling Arntzen, incoming president of the Chamber, and on Oct. 1, 1960, the ball really started rolling at the city-owned site at Ludington and N. 3rd St. When excavating began as a contribution of the Harnischfeger Corp., using a P&H shovel, of course.

Promises of materials and skilled and unskilled labor for the Chamber building project started coming in, from the city and from all of Delta County's townships and from Cornell, Gladstone, Wells and Fox. The "Buy A Brick" campaign was launched.

Praised By Governor

Eleven months later the building was delivered complete to the Chamber of Commerce — including a floor polisher, sidewalks, lawn seeded and fertilized. The building was dedicated with suitable pride on Labor Day, 1960.

Although the Escanaba group had been spurred on by the Marquette Chamber project, it was not until later they found they had indeed achieved much — for they discovered that unlike Escanaba, Marquette had not done so well and still owed considerable on their building.

Construction of the John F. Kennedy School for Retarded Children, the next Project Pride undertaking, was started in the fall of 1960 and delivered complete and free of debt 11 months later. The same campaign plan was used and there were some substantial contributions.

"I commend your community for doing things like this rather than sitting back and waiting for state or federal government aid," said Gov. George Romney, the dedication speaker.

Aid Crash Victim

The School for the Retarded has served the area well and its role of service is a continuing and expanding one.

Project Pride's third project was indeed monumental although no structure remains as a symbol of the good work. A young school teacher and his wife from California were involved in a highway accident near Escanaba. The wife was killed, the husband critically injured. There were long months of treatment in St. Francis Hospital.

Project Pride stepped in with a helping hand when all other resources of the teacher failed. Warren Morrison and a committee with Project Pride assistance raised about $1,250. The help included financing an air ambulance flight to California, carrying the injured man back to his home and his children.

Continuing Benefit

Now Project Pride is phasing out. One of the committee members died, others are ill, and some are "just tired" and feel unequal to sponsorship of additional service jobs.

But the good work goes on. So long as the Chamber of Commerce exists, the Project Pride building is its home; if the Chamber ceases to function the building reverts to the City of Escanaba.

The John F. Kennedy School, located on Escanaba Area District land, has the cooperation of the Board of Education; and if the school should cease, the building goes to the School District.

In one of its final actions the committee closed out its treasury and contributed $93 therein to the Delta County Historical Society for its Museum expansion fund, a generous touch to an outstanding decade of service.

Briefly Told

The Ford River Library will be closed Thanksgiving Day.

The Catherine Bonifas Civic Center will be closed Thursday in observance of Thanksgiving.

There will be no junior choir at the Central United Methodist Church this week.

The Wells Lions Club will have a potluck supper at the Wells Township Hall on Dec. 1 at 6:30 p. m. All members and their wives are invited.

Richard Siering, 36, Rte. 2, Rapid River, escaped injury Tuesday when he struck and killed a deer on County Rd. 513 on the Stonington Peninsula at 7:20 a. m.

State Police of the Gladstone Post issued traffic citations Tuesday to Leo Kanerva, Rock, driving left of center; and Edmund Jankowski, 1400 Lincoln Rd., Escanaba, no operator's license.

Steve Storey, Community School director, announces that due to the Thanksgiving holiday there will be no Adult High School or Adult Enrichment classes meeting this evening. Classes will resume Monday as regularly scheduled.

David Eisenhower Plans Navy Hitch

BOSTON (AP) — David Eisenhower has decided to accept his grandfather's advice and join the Navy after graduating from Amherst College, the Boston Herald Traveler reported.

The newspaper said young Eisenhower was counseled by the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower and by his father, both West Point graduates, to enter the Navy if he planned only brief military service.

Young Eisenhower, a senior at Amherst, and son-in-law of President Nixon, was not available for comment on his plans.

David Eisenhower has said he hopes to study law after completing his military obligations, and possibly to seek a political career.

Shriver's Political Ambitions Secretive

PARIS (AP) — The most Sargent Shriver will say about his political ambitions is that he would "consider an interesting opportunity."

Right now, Shriver says, "I'm happy where I am, and I think that what I'm doing as ambassador to France is important."

This has not silenced embassy gossip about Shriver's intentions for the future, nor has it prevented the ambassador from making discreet soundings about his political prospects in Illinois and Maryland.

Future In Doubt

Though Shriver seems to be devoting as much energy and attention to his diplomatic assignment as he did when he arrived here 18 months ago, the feeling among some embessy officials is that Shriver won't be around much longer.

Just how long, they reason, will depend on whether President Nixon yields to party pressure to replace Shriver, a Democrat who married into the Kennedy family, or on how Shriver evaluates his own chances for "an interesting opportunity" at home. In the meantime, the evidence is that both the State Department and the French Foreign Ministry are satisfied with the job Shriver has done here.

Relations Improved

However much circumstances created the conditions for better relations between France and America, Shriver, as chief of mission in Paris, can take credit for a measure of the improvement.

He brought with him a frank, free-wheeling "New Frontier" approach to diplomacy. This by and large has pleased the French, who customarily insist on formal speech and behavior.

Diplomats from both sides say they appreciate the flow of ideas from the ambassador's second-floor office to rebuild the close ties that bound France and the United States for generations before Charles de Gaulle became president of France.

"He's constantly bombarding us with ideas, suggestions and questions," says an overworked but apparently content embassy staff member. Another observes:

Visits Emphasized

"If he asks for a memo on something, it better be on time and it better be airtight, or he won't consult you any more."

A believer in what one staff member called "person-to-person contact," Shriver has emphasized exchange visits of intellectuals, businessmen, legislators, civil servants and students.

Despite his faltering French he strives to maintain close personal contact with top Fench officials, and is a regular tennis partner of Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas.

Likeable Ambassador

An indication of how the French view Shriver was provided by an article this year in the authoritative National Defense Review. A ranking Foreign Ministry official, writing under a pseudonym, had this to say:

"An able and likeable ambassador, M. Shriver has worked hard at making the United States better known and more attractive in France. At the time of the monetary crisis of November (1968) one was able to note the unequivocal signs of American support for France, and the satisfaction brought about by that support."

Airlines Agree On Rates, New Excursion Plan

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The world's major airlines have reached general agreement on revisions in their North Atlantic rate schedules, including a new 29-to-45-day excursion fare.

The 43 members of the International Air Transport Association—IATA—in effect revalidated—with some modifications—the air fare package adopted in Dallas last February, H. Don Reynolds, chairman of IATA's traffic conference, said. But he pointed out that details must still be worked out, and all IATA members must approve the final agreement before it can take effect.

Airline delegates have been meeting here since Nov. 18 in an attempt to end the price war set off by Alitalia's posting of a $299 Rome-New York roundtrip fare in October. The conference is now looking at fares on mid-Atlantic routes.

Reynolds said agreement had been reached on three major modifications in the Dallas rate package for North Atlantic routes:

1. The 14-to-21-day excursion fare period will be extended to 28 days.

2. A new 29-to-45-day individual excursion fare will be added to the schedule, with the fare varying according to season. The roundtrip New York-London fare, for example, will range from $250 in the winter to $295 during the summer.

3. There will be an 80-passenger fare for groups having a "common denominator" and not formed solely to take advantage of group rates. On the New York-London route, for example, roundtrip fare will be $170 off-season, $190 in the basic season, and $235 in the summer.

Conference sources estimated that the meeting would continue at least for the rest of this week. They added that last-minute objections could threaten the general agreement.

Discussion also is expected of fares on the London-Miami route which National Airlines plans to open early next year.

Boycott Of All GE Goods, UAW Aim

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide boycott on General Electric products—"from a light bulb to a generator"—has been promised by the AFL-CIO unless the company reaches an agreement with its striking workers by next Friday.

The firm, struck by 147,000 workers a month ago, said the unions' tactic could backfire by reducing business and forcing a cutback in jobs.

"If GE continues its arrogant take-it-or-leave-it attitude, we will have no recourse but to urge customers throughout the country to refuse to buy any product that bears a GE label," said AFL-CIO President George Meany in announcing the boycott Monday.

The company responded that "in any boycott of our products, some customers of ours will turn to competitors. And when the boycott is over some of them will not come back to us. Lost customers mean lost business, and lost business means lost jobs."

"32 YEARS OF SALES & SERVICE"

Says Pair Backs Tax Policies Aiding Firms

LANSING (AP)— Democratic State Chairman James McNeely has charged two top Michigan Republicans with working for tax policies that protect big business at the expense of the middle and low income taxpayer.

Gov. William Milliken "showed his true colors a few weeks ago," McNeely said, "when, after months of study, he proposed a tax plan which would bring about $52 million in tax relief for corporations in Michigan while upping taxes on individuals by $226 million."

McNeely noted that one step in Milliken's proposed education reform package was repeal of the current property tax credit against the state income tax.

"That ability to pay feature was one of the few protections the middle and low income taxpayers of Michigan had," he said.

U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin also came under attack for branding as "shenanigans" attempts by Senate Democrats to improve the federal tax reform bill by giving more relief to middle and low income groups."

McNeely said Griffin "appears wedded to a proposal which would give 24.7 per cent of the tax relief to the 4.7 per cent of the taxpayers in the over $20,000-a-year income bracket and only 13.5 per cent of the 20.7 per cent in the $7,000-$10,000 group."

40 Snowmobile Events Scheduled This Winter

By BOB VOGES

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Snowmobiling is the booming coming sport in Michigan, rivaling even skiing as a winter tourist attraction.

"We haven't got the figures, but we believe it now is topping skiing as a tourist dollar money maker," said Gerry Payne, president of the International Snowmobile Association of Traverse City.

The association is sanctioning some 40 events this winter.

Soo Race Tops

Among the top attractions will be the International 500-Mile Snowmobile Race at Sault Ste. Marie with $12,000 in prize money and the Traverse City 250-mile race on Feb. 21 with $15,000 in prizes.

"A lot of people don't realize it, but this is a summer sport too," Payne said. "We hold snowmobile drag races in the summer on mowed fields.'

The secretary of State's office reports snowmobile registration in Michigan now has topped the 75,000 mark.

The registration fee is $5 through the rest of this year, good for a three-year period. The fee will drop to $3 after the first of the year. The registration is expected to jump with the cheaper fee.

Status Symbol

Snowmobiles are becoming a status symbol. The Secretary of State's office reports there now are a number of two snowmobile families.

The Department of Natural Resources was one of the first state departments to recognize the popularity of the sport.

It has marked out 29 snowmobile trails in state forests, 10 in the Upper Peninsula and 19 in the northern Lower Peninsula and other areas of the state.

A list and maps of the trails are available free for the asking from the department headquarters in Lansing.

Safety Tips

The department also has put out a list of safety tips for snowmobile operators. These include:

—Know your machine. Carry tools necessary for repair work and take along extra parts and an emergency fuel supply.

—Carry survival items such as matches, a compass, snowshoes or skis and warm clothing.

—Stay on marked trails to avoid becoming lost or stranded.

—If you venture out on a lake, be familiar with the thickness of the ice. Watch out for thin spots and old fishing holes.

The department also adds a plea asking snowmobiles not be litterbugs as they cruise over Michigan's winter wonderland.

William McGraw, director of the Michigan Tourism Division, reports the division is working on the idea of putting out a directory of Michigan snowmobile trails and vents.

Fastest Growing Sport

William McGraw said it will be published either by the division or jointly by the four regional tourist associations.

McGraw agrees that snowmobiling has become Michigan's fastest growing seasonal recreation.

"Because it is not limited to age groups or by physical conditioning, it has widened Michigan's winter sports activity," McGraw noted.

Because Michigan has such a high resident snowmobile registration, most snowmobiling is engaged in by local residents, McGraw said.

Detroit Lawyer To Be Collins' Trial Defender

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Joseph W. Louisell, prominent Detroit criminal lawyer, will defend John Norman Collins in his first-degree murder trial, the Detroit News reported.

Collins, 22, is accused in the July 23 strangling of Karen Sue Beineman, 18, when both were students at Eastern Michigan University in nearby Ypsilanti.

It was reported Louisell and another Detroit attorney, Neil Fink, 30, agreed to defend Collins after conferring with his mother, Loretta Collins, and other relatives over the past two weeks.

Louisell and Fink reportedly have talked with Collins in his jail cell where he is awaiting trial, expected to begin sometime after the first of the year.

Miss Beineman was the seventh victim in a series of coed murders in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in the past two years.

An Ann Arbor attorney, Richard W. Ryan, has been representing Collins.

THE MICHIGAN Tourism Division and snowmobile enthusiasts agree that snowmobiling is becoming one of the fastest growing recreation sports in Michigan. It is also a family sport, as typified by this group skimming along a trail in the Houghton Lake State Forest. (AP Wirephoto)

Commencement

EAST LANSING (AP)—Kingman Brewster Jr., president of Yale University, will be the speaker at the Michigan State University fall term commencement Dec. 6.

Brewster, who has headed the Ivy League university since 1963 also will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Degrees of doctor of humane letters will be awarded to Dr. John Hope Franklin, chairman of the department of history at the University of Chicago, and Dr. John A. Garraty, a former member of the MSU faculty, now professor of history at Columbia University and current president of the Society of American Historians.

Get-Together

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Gov. William Milliken and former Gov. G. Mennen Williams plan a get-together in Lansing Monday. Williams, who also served as undersecretary for Africa affairs, wants to present Milliken with a copy of his new book, "Africa For The Africans."

With The Deer Hunters

The Daily Press welcomes news about hunters, events in camp, and who got deer. Phone deer hunting items to 786-1021.

The men will have to doff their hunting caps to Mrs. Edwin Peacock Sr., Bark River, who last week bagged a 160-pound doe while hunting in the Perronville area. Mr. and Mrs. Peacock use their camper as a base out of which to hunt. She has been successful in past years also — and this year she's ahead of her husband. He's still looking for his deer.

Fate Of Fish, Birds Due To DDT Appears Critical

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fish and birds such as the bald eagle, preregrine falcon and brown pelican face a continuing threat from DDT residues even though the pesticide is on its way out, according to several wildlife experts.

"Near extinction" is the outlook for the birds whose numbers already have been critically reduced by the effects of DDT, said Dr. Ray Johnson, a researcher for the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife.

Dwindling fish populations are expected in pesticide laden waters where some species have been declared unfit for human consumption.

Fish Unfit To Eat

Perhaps hardest hit will be the fourth largest freshwater lake in the world, Lake Michigan.

Johnson, however, doubts the birds will follow the passenger pigeon into oblivion. "There's considerable hope for rescuing them at the last minute," he said. "We're aware of this right now."

Whether these species survive apparently depends on the length of time lethal DDT residues remain in the environment.

Residue Remains

Shortly before Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin announced his intention to ban all but emergency uses of DDT by the end of 1970, Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, said DDT residues will show up in foodstuffs for "10 years or longer" after a ban goes into effect.

Little is known about the natural breakdown of DDT into harmless components after the pesticide enters the environment.

"I think it depends on the chemistry of each local situation. The persistance may range from several months in some situations to years in other cases," said Johnson.

Certain local populations of such birds as osprey in Rhode Island and herring gulls on the Lake Michigan shore are expected to drop sharply. A DDT residue buildup has been noted by biologists in the mallards and black ducks in the Chesapeake Bay region.

DDT Level High

In fishes, DDT residue levels in some catches of coho salmon, lake trout and chubs from Lake Michigan have exceeded the 5 parts per million permissible level for interstate sale.

DDT has already been blamed for lake trout die-offs in New York state. Significant, but not critical, residues have been detected in California anchovies and oysters.

Other Rivers Affected

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has disclosed a nationwide survey that fish taken from 12 rivers and lakes exceed Food and Drug Administration levels for human consumption:

The Hudson River in New York, the Delaware and Cooper rivers of South Carolina, St. Lucia Canal and Apalachicola River in Florida, the Tombigbee River in Alabama, the Rio Grande in Texas, the Arkansas and White rivers in Arkansas, the Sacremento River in California, and lakes Ontario and Michigan.

Thibodeau To Be Milliken's Legal Adviser

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken today named 28-year-old Joseph Thibodeau as his legal advisor.

Thibodeau, who served as assistant legal advisor since Jan. 30, succeeds David Dykhouse, who resigned to return to private practice.

A cum laude graduate of the University of Detroit Law School, Thibodeau was one of 10 persons selected for appointment under the attorney general's honors program in 1966. He worked as a trial attorney in the refund trial selection of the U.S. Justice Department tax division.

That job took him to Denver, where he represented the United States in litigation of corporate, estate and individual tax refund matters.

In his Michigan post, Thibodeau will advise Milliken on matters of constitutional and statutory law, nonfiscal legislation and other legal matters connected with the executive office.

A native of Grosse Pointe, Thibodeau graduated from Austin High School in 1959 and earned a bachelor's degree in history at Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass.

New State Police Changes Listed

EAST LANSING (AP)—State Police Director Fredrick Davids has announced the promotion of one trooper, new assignments for four and re-employment of a former state policeman.

Trooper Gordon J. Moyle of Wakefield has been promoted to corporal and transferred to the traffic division, Detroit district headquarters.

Transfers will move Cpl. Bobbie R. Oaks of the Rockford Traffic Division to the program liaison section of the highway safety planning division, East Lansing; Cpl. Roger L. Klinge of the Detroit traffic division to Rockford; Trooper Archie D. Davies of Warren to Paw Paw; and Trooper James L. Tolsma of Battle Creek to East Lansing.

Samuel M. Lawson, who joined the State Police in January, then left in June, has been re-employed as a trooper and will be assigned to Battle Creek.

WITH CHRISTMAS just around the corner it's time again to think of gay, original holiday decorating ideas like these, made by area home extension members. We see here a jolly Santa made from varied colored plastic bags and various decorations made from foam materials including, a pixie doll doll, candle holders and tree ornaments. (Daily Press Photo)

Redrafting Of Education Bill Now Under Way

LANSING (AP) — Legislative negotiators are redrafting a "bottom up" regional school district bill that could pave the way for further agreement on education reform.

The bill, a revision of Gov. William Milliken's proposal for organization and authority of fairly large regional districts, seeks to clarify responsibilities for various educational functions.

"We're trying to make bottom -up, not top-down regions," said House Speaker William A. Ryan, a Detroit Democrat.

Critics of the Milliken proposal, including Senate Minority Leader Sander Levin, D-Berkley, condemned the "top-down" regional plan as one that could take too much authority away from the local level.

Rep. Robert Waldron, R - Grosse Pointe, the House Minority leader, said the revision represented "substantial progress because it specified that the bulk of operation of regular education programs would be done by regions.

"I consider this a key bill," Waldron said. "It's more important than the state board bill or the local reorganization bill. It makes for more expertise working for a larger population area. "What we've rewritten has a lot great probability of passing the Legislature" he said.

Ryan said the proposed revision would allow the state to delegate responsibility for various special education programs to qualified and interested regional or local boards.

This plan still faces review by the entire bipartisan negotiating committee.

MSU Speaker

EAST LANSING (AP)—Civil rights activist and comedian Dick Gregory is to speak Dec. 5 at Michigan State University's campus auditorium. Gregory, who ran for U.S. President as a write-in candidate in the 1968 campaign and against Richard Daley for mayor of Chicago in 1967, is the third speaker in the university's great issues series.

School Board Sees, Hears How To Learn

It was a different sort of meeting Tuesday night when the seven-member Manistique Area Board of Education met at the high school.

They did conduct some business, but, in the first of their twice-monthly meetings, they spent most of their time getting acquainted with the audio-visual department.

The board heard A-V Coordinator Ronald Patrick explain the program and then visited the A-V center where he demonstrated equipment and pointed out the advantages of utilizing the fruits of the electronic age in the classroom.

Patrick showed the ease of reproducing instruction materials (parts of books, film strips, slides, worksheets, tests, etc.) for classroom use. He alson discussed the present and future goals and objectives of the program.

Visit "Learning" Bus

The board then trooped outside to board the new audio bus (a 72-passenger "learning" bus complete with tape recording equipment used daily on the Germfask run and twice weekly to transport vocational students to Bay de Noc Community College in Escanaba).

After adjusting earphones, the Board listened to tape recordings on a variety of subjects from any of the six channels available.

From the bus in the parking lot area, the board climbed stairs to the second floor balcony of the high school which has been converted to an audio-visual learning center with 31 student stations. Again adjusting earphones, board members listened to tape recordings from small, individual, partitioned booths.

Hear Tapes

Some tuned to Robert Frost reciting his poetry, others chose a classroom lecture by local biology instructor Glen Bignall; some heard a serious discussion on the evils of tobacco; others the impassioned plea of Clarence Darrow arguing for social justice in a famous 1926 courtroom case.

Patrick showed a short filmstrip on communications before the board reconvened for further discussions in the meeting room.

In business, the board gave the administration approval to accept bids and proceed with grading, sanding, and perhaps topsoiling an area north of the Lakeside School as the first step in the development of a playground area. Funds are available from the will of the late Mrs. Jennie Putnam. About $2,700 will be available for the project after a $1,300 charge is deducted to pay moving costs for relocation of the Post House Museum.

Business Manager Robert Kanerva said the Post House probably will be moved sometime next week to the lawn of the new Chamber of Commerce Building.

Seek Work Change

The board also endorsed a motion by Trustee Robert Knoph that a letter be sent to Inland Lime & Stone Co., asking cooperation in arranging Trustee Leon Wood's work schedule to allow him to attend board meetings. Wood does shift work and has been absent from several recent meetings because of his work schedule.

Because of the Christmas holiday, the December 23 meeting of the board will be canceled. The second meeting in January will be held at Fairview School where the board will inspect the new hot lunch equipment and talk with Hot Lunch Supervisor, Mrs. Kay Atherton.

The board also plans to discuss special education at Fairview with teachers in the program.

Dellis To Lead Chamber; Tagg Vice President

Officers and division heads were elected and special committees appointed to serve the Manistique Area Chamber of Commerce during a director's meeting Tuesday morning.

Nat Dellis was re-elected president; James Tagg, elected vice president; Carl Graves, re-elected secretary-manager; and Clyde Strasler, re-elected treasurer.

Division heads elected include Bill Putvin, Retail; Ted Hentschell, Tourist; Fred Hahne, General Development; and Glen Jenks, Industrial. Co-chairmen and committees will be chosen by the division heads.

Special appointments include Bob Carlson and Dr. Larry Sell, Ambassador's Club; Don Hoholik, Chamber office; David Rood, David Kelly and Edwin E. Wuehle, public relations.

Dellis reported about 100 pledge cards for chamber membership had been secured by distributive education students working for "Operation Join." He also introduced newly-elected directors present including John P. Miller, Carlson and Sell.

Christmas Parade chairman Bill Griffith reported plans on the Dec. 5 "Walk With Us Down Christmas Street" walking parade which will be held sometime between 5-7 p. m. This activity is being promoted by the retail division of the chamber.

Yule Party Set For Rep. Ruppe

A Christmas party for 11th District Congressman Phillip Ruppe (R-Houghton) is being planned for Sunday, Dec. 7 at the Fireside Inn. All area residents are invited to attend the affair.

The idea of a Christmas party for Congressman Ruppe is, according to the sponsoring committee, a timely way of saying "thank you" for his efforts on behalf of this area.

The informal party, beginning at 5 p. m., will include a buffet, punch and live entertainment. Guests will have an opportunity to talk to the Congressman and extend season's greetings until 10 p. m.

Tickets, priced at $25 per couple, will cover the cost of the party with the balance going to help defray Ruppe's campaign and travel expenses. Ticket information may be obtained from either Clyde Strasler at the State Savings Bank or Fred Hahne at the First Nation Bank or by writing P. O. Box 111, Manistique.

Kelley Attacked For Being Lax Fighting Crime

LANSING (AP) — A Republican legislator has renewed a charge that Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, a Democrat, has shown a "lack of aggressive legal prosecution. . . in the fight against organized crime."

Sen. George W. Kuhn, R-Birmingham, made the charge Tuesday in a letter addressed to Kelley.

Kuhn asked for an accounting of "all pending indictments that that were issued as a result of several grand juries." He specified one-man grand jury investigations headed by Oakland County Circuit Court Judges Philip Pratt and James S. Thorburn and by Wayne County Circuit Court Judges Edward S. Piggins and George E. Bowles.

A spokesman for Kelley said the Kuhn's letter had not been received in the attorney general's office by late Tuesday. It was made available to newsmen in the capitol.

Kuhn reaffirmed his own support for legislative proposals to revise Michigan's citizens grand jury system while retaining the controversial one-man grand jury.

State Meeting

LANSING (AP)—Nearly 100 persons are expected to attend the State Aeronautics Commission's fourth annual engineering conference. Involved in the Dec. 3-4 conference will be airport managers, consulting engineers, state and federal aviation officials and others concerned with airport development.

EXTENSION HOMEMAKERS have been busy throughout the year making Christmas articles for their own use and for sale at the annual Holiday Tea which is held each year in Escanaba. Soldier Cutback Plans Still On WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will continue to pull troops out of Vietnam even though President Nixon has not yet announced any further cutback goals, a Pentagon spokesman reported.

The spokesman described the withdrawal as an "on - going, continuing program" and said the momentum would be maintained beyond the announced immediate goal of 60,000, which was reached last week, some 25 days before the Dec. 15 objective date.

The spokesman said Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird believes there is a momentum in the withdrawal process that will continue.

The spokesman agreed that a new presidential announcement of withdrawal goals probably will describe what already has been happening.

Education Reform Bargaining Lingers

LANSING (AP) — Education reform bargaining between Michigan's two legislative bodies and political parties appears increasingly likely to drag through the coming Thanksgiving weekend.

With both Houses scheduled to reconvene Tuesday, Legislative leaders still are picking over details and alternatives to the 10 bills and two constitutional amendments proposed by Gov. William G. Milliken to overhaul elementary and secondary education in the state.

More Negotiations

Further negotiations were scheduled for today and Friday and "probably" will be held Saturday, House Speaker William A. Ryan said.

Talks Tuesday appeared to focus on what legislators are calling "compensatory education" — programs aimed at helping economically and educationally deprived or disadvantaged children.

A committee reviewing a proposed budget for school operation during the coming fiscal year now appears likely to recommend increases in a $1.008 billion school-aid bill passed by the Senate.

Milliken recommended a budget of $1.035 billion.

Area Of Neglect

The difference between those figures, when finally settled upon, would be in compensatory education programs, Democrats contended.

Ryan termed it an "area of greatest neglect."

"We'll urge they expand it even though they don't expand the financing," said Senate Minority Leader Sander Levin, D-Berkley.

The Senate earlier stripped some $19 million in remedial reading, special education for physically and mentally handicapped children from the bill.

Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Attica, presented the committee with a plan which he said would pump an additional $270 million into the school aid appropriation.

Tax Use In Plan

Funds for his plan would be drawn from a state income tax — 1 per cent on personal income, 3 per cent on financial institutions and 2.2 per cent for corporations.

That plan received little committee enthusiasm, although assistant House Minority Leader Martin Buth, R-Comstock Park, called it "just a year ahead of time."

Asked by one newsman why the plan was mentioned at all in the daily briefing on reform negotiations since it raised no enthusiasm, Levin replied:

"If we didn't tell you what we talked about, there wouldn't be anything to tell."

24 Hours Closer

Levin, Ryan and Buth agreed, however, that education reform was "24 hours closer than we were yesterday." The question, they said was "where were we yesterday?"

"This looks more and more like labor negotiations," said Ryan a former UAW local president. "You accomplish the first one-eighth of the job in seven-eighths of the time. We'll have plenty to do in January," he added.

Levin predicted that by mid-December or shortly before Christmas, "we'll either have enacted important legislation or the session will come to a close."

Attorney Gen. Mitchell Sheds Label As 'Toughie'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "No question about it. I'm the liberal of the Nixon administration," laughed John Newton Mitchell as he leaned back from his desk and puffed on his ever-present pipe.

The former Wall Street lawyer, now U.S. attorney general, joked about such labels tagged on him as "Mr. Tough," "Mr. Law and Order," "Old Stone Face" and "Inquisitor General."

"Actually," Mitchell said, "I'm a softie."

Underlings Agree

Some of his Justice Department underlings agree. They insist that Mitchell's tough guy image, stemming partly from his role as President Nixon's 1968 campaign manager, is deceiving.

As for the 56-year-old Mitchell, he dismisses all such labels with the caustic remark, "Other than the fact that I don't think they're applicable, I don't give a damn."

Mitchell gives every appearance of the reluctant public servant, called to Washington at the sacrifice of a lucrative law practice and out of loyalty to Nixon whom he met only three years ago.

Offers Advice

What Mitchell does for Nixon stretches far beyond the narrow confines of the Justice Department. As the President's lawyer, he gives advice on issues ranging from urban affairs to the Vietnam war.

An enigma to many Washington politicians, Mitchell appears to be a unique figure in the Cabinet—cool, calculating, and without the ambition that characterizes so many top government officials.

He professes to long for the day when he can return to Wall Street where he was an acknowledged expert on municipal bonds. He claims a higher government position, such as the Supreme Court, is the furthest thing from his mind.

Nevertheless, Mitchell has been thrust into the storm center of controversy surrounding Nixon's policies on the war, dissent, crime and, most recently, the nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth to the Supreme Court.

Stands Behind Nixon

On Vietnam, he stands solidly with the President.

Mitchell's approach to crime, unlike that of his predecessor, Ramsey Clark, is strictly from the law enforcement angle. And his legislative proposals—none of which has passed either House—would reinforce police authority.

On civil rights, Mitchell, has moved to change longstanding department policy. He and Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, adopted a policy statement July 3 erasing arbitrary deadlines for achieving desegregation.

Then, just over a month later, the department proposed and obtained a delay in court-ordered desegregation of 30 Mississippi school districts.

Strong Decision Noted

This decision prompted a revolt by virtually all of the department's civil rights lawyers. Mitchell took the attitude that the attorneys could carry out his policies or leave.

But all this was muted somewhat earlier this month when the Supreme Court declared that the "all deliberate speed" concept for achieving school desegregation was no longer permissible.

Mitchell, who set forth the administration's hard line on campus disturbances last May, also strongly condemned leaders of the Nov. 15 antiwar demonstration that drew more than 250,000 persons to the capital.

But he said this criticism was made only because he felt the sponsors did not do enough to prevent militant elements from getting out of hand.

"The right to dissent has to exist; we have to protect and preserve it," he said.

Won't Back Agnew

Although some other administration officials followed Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's lead in attacking television commentators and some newspapers, Mitchell refused to join in the denunciations.

As for Agnew's speeches, Mitchell said, "I've not read any of them. I don't have time to."

Mitchell maintains a firm hand over his department. A shrewd administrator, whose managerial talent met the test of a tough presidential campaign, he stamps his personal okay on every law suit that is filed, every statement that is released.

In between, he sandwiches time for regular White House meetings, accompanies Nixon on virtually all out-of-town retreats to San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla.

Although he was born in Detroit, Mitchell has spent most of his life in New York where, until this year, he was a senior partner in the law firm of Nixon, Mudge, Rose, Guthrie, Alexander & Mitchell.

In Washington, he is known as a hard worker who comes to the office at 8 a.m. and stays until 7 p.m. He usually leaves with two briefcases loaded with papers.

His wife, the former Martha Beall of Pine Bluff, Ark., has become one of the better known Cabinet wives because of her campaign against narcotics and blunt comments on national issues.

Mitchell, while disdaining labels on his philosophy, suggests his approach should be described as just reasonable, neither to the left nor to the right of the political spectrum.

Despite his reputation as a taciturn, scowling administrator, Mitchell often displays a wry sense of humor.

At an interview, during which two photographers were constantly snapping pictures, he quipped: "Now, don't catch me smiling. It'll ruin my image."

Soothing Music Can Be 'Pain In Neck'

By RANDALL COLLIER

NEW YORK (AP) — Music—the universal language that soothes nerves, brighten lives and fills a home with happiness, can also be a pain in the neck.

But the real culprit may be the machine it's played on.

In demand now are those new fangled, extrapowerful stereo sets that according to the ads, "bring Johnny Cash right into your living room."

Ads Tempting

The ads are tempting and pretty soon you have to go to your neighborhood music store to hear for yourself those powerful woofers and tiny tweeters.

Sure enough, the sound is magnificent as the salesman turns the volume up and the store windows vibrate.

Finally, after hearing 20 different sets and twice that many speakers you decide on one you like and ask the salesman to deliver it. That's the first mistake.

Run Out Of Stock

"We'll have it in your home in three days," the salesman promises. Three days pass, and then a fourth and at the end of the fifth day you call to inquire.

The salesman tries to butter you up by saying "the set you want is in such a demand that we've run out. But come Monday morning it will be like . . ."

"Yes, yes," you interrupt, "it will be like having Johnny Cash singing in the living room."

Monday finally comes and lucky you, you're off work, so you unpack the different boxes and start attaching wires and screws. When everything is unwrapped, bolted, wire and the speakers are in place you turn it on, waiting to hear sweet music.

Instead, there's nothing.

"It doesn't work," you tell the salesman over the phone.

"It's probably just a little thing," he replies. "Have you checked the fuse?"

"Fuse?" you ask. "Does it have a fuse?"

"Of course it has a fuse. Look on the back."

You look on the back and sure enough, it has a fuse. At least it has a hole where a fuse is supposed to be.

"Mine doesn't have a fuse. Where's my fuse?" you demand.

"I don't know. Are you sure you didn't lose it?" he says, trying to put the blame on you.

Antenna Missing

At last the fuse is found and it's time for music. "First the stereo-FM," you say to yourself, as you twist the dial. All there is is static and as you're getting ready to call the salesman again, you wife advises that you've forgotten to get an antenna.

At last, sweet music!

You get your favorite album out. It's a Mexican mariachi record by some guy named Pancho Avitia.

Sure enough, you would think he was in the living room. But there's a catch. The man in the apartment upstairs thinks Pancho's in his living room too and he begins to pound his floor.

Soon he's at your door ranting and raving.

By this time you wife is at your side and you think she's going to back you up. "I was playing that record because my wife is a Mexican," you tell the neighbor.

And your wife retorts: "Don't get me mixed up in this fight. I think it's a lousy record too."

Now you're at the end of your rope. You call the salesman back but he says you can't return the stereo. "All sales final," he reminds you.

Then you decide it's a nice piece of furniture, even if you can't listen to it, so it sits in the living room and gathers dust.

Fruehauf Told To Shape Up Or Face Charges

DETROIT (AP) — The regional director of the National Labor Relations Board has told Fruehauf Corp. it must bargain "in good faith" with the United Auto Workers Union or the company will be charged with three counts of unfair labor practices.

Jerome H. Brooks, NLRB regional director, said he sent a letter to Fruehauf officials which "indicated that I, as regional director, felt Fruehauf has been bargaining in bad faith with the union."

"We'll issue a complaint within a few days" if no written agreement on bargaining procedures is reached between Fruehaulf and NLRB officials, Brooks said.

The UAW earlier this year won the right to bargain for about 300 office and technical employes of the firm, which makes trailers and other over-the-road equipment. The union has sought for almost five months to win an initial contract for the white-collar workers.

Brooks said that if the formal complaints are issued they would charge Fruehauf with refusing to bargain in good faith on matters related to union security; granting wage increases, without bargaining, to certain groups of employes a few days after the UAW won bargaining rights and mailing strikers a letter threatening action which Brooks asserted would ignore certain legal rights of the union members.

Meanwhile, Ken Morris, director of the UAW's Region 1-B charged Monday that Detroit police displayed "high-handed one-sidedness with the company."

Morris said that two pickets were injured Monday when a company aide drove through the picket line at high speed. Three other pickets reportedly were brushed by cars in separate incidents.

Abortion Ring Raid Leads To Five Arrests

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A state police crackdown on an alleged abortion ring led to five arrests in Grand Rapids and Detroit Tuesday.

Detective Tom Herbert of the Rockford post said 22-year-old Patricia Ann Bricker was arrested at her Grand Rapids home Tuesday.

She was charged with conspiracy to commit abortion as were four persons arrested in the Detroit area earlier in the day.

She waived preliminary examination in district court and was released on $500 bond.

John F. Williams, 44, of Grand Rapids; Gerald W. Tinskey, 29, of Detroit and Ronald W. Mitchell, 32, of Detroit plus his 25-year-old Wife, Suzel, demanded examination on the charges during a hearing in Grand Rapids. They were freed on bonds ranging from $500 to $1,000.

Williams was arrested during a raid at a motel in Redford Township while the other three were arrested at a motel in Detroit.

State Police said they have been investigating a group which has been taking women from the Grand Rapids area to Detroit for abortions.

Herbert said a "trooperette" from State Police intelligence in Lansing was used in making the four Detroit area arrests. He said the woman contacted persons at a motel and told them she wanted an abortion.

The woman said the group charged her $500 for setting up an abortion.

Herbert said the investigation actually began about three week ago.

Holiday Menu Includes Top Pro Grid Schedule

By The Associated Press

Thanksgiving Day will be a holiday for most pro football teams but not for the Kansas City Chiefs, who have Denver on their menu. They'll be out to carve up the Broncos in order to stay in the thick of the American Football League's Western Division race.

In other Turkey Day games San Diego will be at Houston in the AFL and San Francisco faces Dallas and Minnesota plays Detroit in the National Football League.

The Chiefs, 9-2, will be out to avenge Sunday's 27-24 defeat by division leader Oakland, 9-1-1 against the Broncos, who have faded to 4-6-1 after a strong start.

With only two games left after Thursday's contest, Kansas City must win to stay within one-half game of Oakland, whom the Chiefs face in a possible showdown for the division title on Dec. 13, the last regular season game for both teams.

Kansas City, led by the passing of Len Dawson and running of Robert Holmes, Mike Garrett and Warren McVea will be trying to take their frustrations of the Oakland loss out on the injury-plagued Broncos who will have seven starters as probables, including quarterback-Steve Tensi, the league's second leading rusher Floyd Little and Al Denson, the AFL's top receiver.

San Diego, with rookie Marty Domres at the throttle, will try to stymie the Oilers chance for clinching a playoff spot in the AFL East.

Domres, making only his second start Sunday, scored two touchdowns and passed for another in the Chargers 45-24 victory over the Broncos. Houston, 5-4-2, second behind the New York Jets, 8-3, has to fend off both Boston and Buffalo, 3-8, for the second spot and a playoff against the first-place team in the West Division.

The Lions, who have a tradition of being tough on Thanksgiving, will try to make the NFL Century Division go down to the wire with a victory over the Vikings, who have won nine straight.

Detroit, 7-3, with four victories in a row, will again go with second-year signal-caller Greg Landry, who has led the Lions to six triumphs in seven games since being installed as a starter while the Vikings, 9-1, will start Joe Kapp with Gary Cuozzo waiting in the wings.

The Vikings won in Minnesota on Oct. 26, 24-10 in the only loss the Lions have suffered with Landry at the controls.

The Cowboys, 8-2, can virtually clinch the Capitol Division crown with a victory over the 49ers, who will be without defensive end Stan Hindman, injured in the 49ers 43-38 loss to New Orleans Sunday.

Dallas, which lost a 24-23 decision last week to the Los Angeles Rams and leads Washington, 5-3-2, in their division race by 2½ games, might have to play without the league's leading rusher, Calvin Hill, who was injured in the Rams loss. Quarterback Craig Morton is also below par with a sore right shoulder.

Hillsdale Squad Draws Concordia

FLINT (AP) — It will be veteran against rookie on the coaching line when Hillsdale College and Concordia of Minnesota collided Saturday afternoon at Flint, in one of the NAIA Champion Bowl semi-final football games.

Frank "Muddy" Waters has coached Hillsdale since 1953 and has taken his teams to three post-season games.

Jim Christopherson who has coached Concordia to a 9-0 record in his first season as head coach.

But both coaches have some problems in common. Each has known his opponents only five days for this game, and will have only three days to study films.

Twins Bolster Coaching Staff

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL—(AP) — Frank Crosetti and former Detroit Tiger pitcher Marv Grissom have been hired as coaches by the Minnesota Twins under new manager Bill Rigney, the American League team announced Tuesday.

Crosetti, a coach with the New York Yankees for 20 years before shifting to the Seattle Pilots last season, will coach third base for the Twins. He replaces John Goryl.

Grissom had been pitching coach for the California Angels for seven seasons under Rigney, Grissom replaces Early Wynn and Art Fowler, who both served as Twins pitching coaches last season under manager Billy Martin.

Heisman Trophy Awarded To Sooners' Steve Owens

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — It's "Steve Owens Day" in Oklahoma, by proclamation of the governor, but the 1969 Heisman Trophy winner is right back on the football field putting in another hard-working afternoon.

Oklahoma's great tailback was awarded the Heisman by a narrow margin Tuesday over Purdue quarterback Mike Phipps. Owens received 1,488 points from the 992 sportswriters and broadcasters who voted. Phipps had 1,334.

Owens didn't have long to relax and enjoy being honored as the nation's best college football player. Oklahoma has a game Saturday with Oklahoma State and practice goes on, Heisman Trophy or no Heisman Trophy.

Owens won the award with a three-season display of amazing consistency and durability. He rushed for 100 or more yards in 17 consecutive games and scored at least one touchdown in 16 straight games.

He's in the running for this year's national rushing and scoring championships, and he needs only 51 yards on the ground against Oklahoma State for an unprecedented third straight Big Eight Conference rushing title.

Owens has never missed a game. He has a simple explanation for his ability to take the punishment he's had to take.

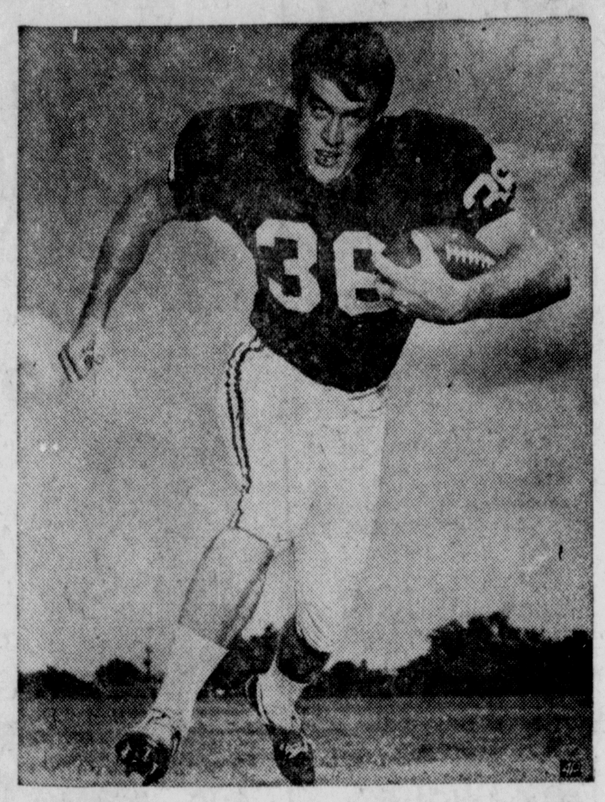
Owens plans a pro football career after an Army Reserve stint, and he says he doesn't care which team drafts him.

Phipps' finishing second was a bitter pill for Purdue backers to swallow. It marked the third time in four years a Boilermaker star had been runner-up in the Heisman Trophy balloting. The others were Bob Griese, to Florida's Steve Spurrier in 1966, and Leroy Keyes, to Southern California's O. J. Simpson last year.

Phipps is an outstanding passer considered by many the likely No. 1 choice in the 1970 professional draft.

Following Owens and Phipps in the balloting were a pair of quarterbacks, Rex Kern of Ohio State and Archie Manning of Mississippi. Kern earned 356 points, Manning 582. Both are juniors.

Finishing fifth and sixth were two big defensive linemen, Mike Reid of Penn State and Mike McCoy of Notre Dame. A defensive player has never won the Heisman Trophy.



STEVE OWENS, Oklahoma's 6 foot 2 inch, 215-pound tailback, was named the recipient of the Heisman Trophy Tuesday, honoring him as college football's outstanding football player. With one game left to play, he has scored 21 touchdowns already and has rushed for 1,216 yards. He will receive the award on Dec. 4. (AP Wirephoto)

Michigan's Pierson Gets Back Of The Week Honors

By The Associated Press

Interceptions are all right, but good, hard tackles are better, as far as Barry Pierson is concerned.

As far as Ohio State is concerned, Pierson could have made more tackles and fewer interceptions last Saturday.

Because when Pierson was through making his three interceptions—he also returned a punt 60 yards to set up a touchdown—Michigan had a stunning 24-12 victory over the previously top-ranked Buckeyes. He also made four unassisted tackles, helped out on another and batted down a pass.

For that performance, Pierson was named college football's Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

Coach Bo Schembechler called Pierson's play "one of the greatest I've ever seen," but Pierson wasn't that thrilled.

"I missed a few tackles," he said. "I could have done better. I'm not All-America material, you know. You have to be outstanding for three years to deserve that. I'm not outstanding. I just do my job."

The 6-foot, 175-pound senior from St. Ignace on Michigan's Upper Peninsula has been overshadowed playing in the same secondary with Tom Curtis, who holds the national record for career interception return yardage.

But he's still managed seven steals this season which he's run back 84 yards. He's also been in on 63 tackles, returned 20 punts for 292 yards and a touchdown and three kickoffs for 65 yards.

"We knew we'd beat Ohio State," Pierson said. "We knew it last week. In fact, we knew it all season. You could just feel it. You could tell right from the first series of downs. The guys up front could feel it. And Ohio State felt it. They moved on us, but we adjusted and stopped them.

"We made them go to things they hadn't gone to before. They're a running team and we made them throw the ball." That's when Ohio State's troubles started.

Pierson was an outstanding offensive back at St. Ignace, and in 1965 was named to the All-U. P. team selected by the U. P. Sportswriters Association. He held practically every school record until John Brown came along to rewrite the statistics this fall.

Pierson has been a member of the Michigan varsity for three seasons, but waited until his final conference appearance to put on an exhibition that resulted in his being named the outstanding performer in the "upset of the century."

Reds, Angels Complete Deal

ANAHEIM (AP)—The Cincinnati lineup was packed with power but the Reds wanted pitching depth. The California mound was overflowing with hurlers but the Angels needed help at the plate.

So Cincinnati sent heavy-hitting outfielder Alex Johnson and infielder Chico Ruiz to the Angels Tuesday in exchange for veteran right-hander Jim McGlothlin and young Pedro Borbon and Vern Geishert.

Johnson's .313 average was sixth highest last year in the National League. He also hit 17 homers and batted in 88 runs. It was the second straight .300-plus year for him and raised his six-year major league batting average to .295.

McGlothlin's 1969 record was only 8-16 but he sported an impressive 3.18 earned run average. His best year was 1967 when he finished at 12-8 but injuries plagued him the next season and he slumped to 10-15. His lifetime major league record is 25-30.

Ruiz played every position except pitcher and catcher for the Reds last year and batted.245. Geishert joined the Angels for the last month of the season and was 1-1 with a 4.64 ERA after pitching 112 innings and posting a 7-4 record and 3.29 ERA at Hawaii. Borbon, with California the entire season, was used exclusively as a reliever, and was 2-3 and 6.15.

Perkins Snares Third Straight

ROCK — The Perkins Yellowjackets continued along their merry way in the Central League race Tuesday night by handing the Rock Little Giants a 49-33 defeat in a league contest. The game was the first of the season for Rock.

Perkins got double figure performances from Ken Simonsen, 16, points, and Bob VanDamme, 12 points, in recording the victory and now stands 2-0 in conference play and 3-0 on the season.

Rock, playing without two regulars who were forced to sit out the game because of disciplinary reasons, could only manage seven field goals in the game with Joe VanDamme leading the way with 11 points.

In the preliminary game, the Rock JV's came out on the top end of a 51-34 score against the Perkins JV's.

Piniella Named Rookie Of Year

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Lou Piniella was named the American Baseball League's rookie of the year "because he deserved it," according to one "totally unbiased fan"—his wife, Anita.

"Oh, I still can't get over it," she said Tuesday shortly after learning of the honor accorded her husband, who plays left field for the Kansas City Royals.

Piniella, 26, said he knew he was in contention for the award, "but I never expected to win."

In fact, Piniella said, he was ready to quit baseball if he hadn't been drafted by a major league club in last spring's league expansion.

Piniella said he had played for three years with Portland, a Pacific Coast League farm club of the Cleveland Indians.

"I had real good years, but every time I reported for spring training with the Indians, they'd send me back to the minors. I was really getting disgruntled," he said.

The Seattle Pilots drafted Piniella in the expansion, but traded him on April 1 to the Royals —another move that Piniella wasn't too happy about, at first.

"I really didn't want to leave Seattle because I'd been playing on the west coast and was pretty well known there. But as soon as I talked to Cedric Tallis (the Royals' general manager), he told me I'd get the opportunity to play and I'd start in left field if I showed I could do the job," he said.

Piniella showed he could do the job well enough to end the season with a .282 batting average, and was happy with Kansas City "because I got to play a lot of baseball."

Late Piston Rally Nips Bulls By One

By The Associated Press

It counted as a home game in the National Basketball Association for Chicago, but things couldn't have been much more foreign for the Bulls here Tuesday night.

Detroit rallied from a five-point deficit in the final two minutes to clip the Bulls, 104-103.

The Bulls are playing eight of their home NBA games in Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium this season. The reason is twofold, the Bulls want to cut down on the number of dates in Chicago hoping to boost attendance at the games they do play there, and the NBA wants to test Kansas City as a potential expansion market.

But for Coach Dick Motta and the Bulls it amounts to playing eight more road games than other NBA teams.

"No, it can't be like playing at home," Motta conceded after the Bulls let an apparent victory slip through their fingers to fall to the .500 level at 10-10 for the season.

After holding early 10-point leads, the Bulls fell behind 77-75, then recovered for a 101-96 lead with 2:18 remaining. But Detroit scored six straight points, however, to reclaim the lead 102-101.

Tom Boerwinkle then hit a basket for a one-point Bulls margin. But Otto Moore tipped in a missed shot with 10 seconds left to win for the Pistons, now 7-11.

Bob Love got 29 for the Bulls and Boerwinkle 22.

A crowd of 4,996 viewed the game.

The Hawks returned to St. Louis and received a miserable welcome from the Milwaukee Bucks, and things don't promise to get any better for the Hawks when they return to Atlanta tonight where the New York Knicks will be waiting.

The Atlanta Hawks, the St. Louis Hawks for 13 years before moving to Atlanta last year, lost to the Bucks 130-115 Tuesday night in a National Basketball Association game played in St. Louis before 11,015 old Hawks fans.

Now, the Hawks return to their new home to face the red-hot Knicks, who rattled off their 16th consecutive victory by holding off the injury-riddled Los Angeles Lakers 103-96 at Madison Square Garden.

The Knicks, with a 21-1 record, will be trying to match the NBA record of 17 straight victories by the 1946 Washington Caps and 1959 Boston Celtics.

In other NBA games, Detroit nipped Chicago 104-103 at Kansas City, Baltimore stopped Phoenix 134-124 and San Francisco turned back Seattle 114-106.

In the American Basketball Association, Washington beat Los Angeles 106-102 in the only game.

Milwaukee, with John McGlocklin scoring eight of his 24 points and Don Smith six of his 16, raced from a 99-97 lead to a 113-97 advantage in the final quarter and breezed home. Lew Alcindor led the Bucks with 33 points and 13 rebounds.

Jim Davis had 30 points and 15 rebounds for the Hawks.

The Lakers, playing without injured superstars Wilt Chamberlain and Elgin Baylor, and Keith Erickson and Rick Roberson, battled from a 14-point deficit to a 78-72 lead before the Knicks took command early in the final quarter behind Walt Frazier.

Frazier finished with 26 points, 13 rebounds and nine assists, helping the balanced Knicks offset a 41-point show by Jerry West.

Baltimore's victory at the expense of Phoenix was its eighth straight. Earl Monroe and rookie Mike Davis topped the Bullets with 29 points each. Dick Van Arsdale of the Suns was the game's high scorer with 30.

Nate Thurmond and Joe Ellis collected 11 points apiece as San Francisco rallied in the final period and handed Seattle its fifth loss in a row. Thurmond led the Warriors with 29 points and hauled down 29 rebounds. Bob Rule was high for the Sonics with 24 points.

Larry Brown dropper two free throws in the final minute for the last of his 21 points and clinched Washington's ABA triumph, breaking a three-game losing streak.

Eben Defeats Trenary Five

EBEN — The Eben Eagles jumped out to a 14-point lead in the first quarter and then held off a rally by the Trenary Comets in the next three quarters to score a 58-56 victory in their opening game of the season.

The Eagles were red hot in the opening period, canning 11 of 20 field goal attempts, and took a 25-11 lead. After that the Comets came to life and outscored Eben in every period, only to fall short by a two-point margin.

Alex Freberg paced the Eben attack with 22 points before fouling out midway through the fourth quarter. Joe Goin aided the winning cause with 11 points.

Don Sandstrom led the Trenary quint in the scoring column with 18 points and junior Dave Mariin chipped in with 13.

Trenary is now winless in two games in Central League play and stands 1-3 on the season. They swing back into action on Dec. 2 on the road at Bark River.

GALESBURG INVENTOR LaFrance Bresson, above, saw an old poster from the 1920s showing a one-wheel motorcycle, so he built himself one. Here he sits inside a 36-inch wheel powered by a 50 c.c. motorcycle engine. (AP Wirephoto)

One-Wheel Motorcycle Could Have Ups, Downs

GALESBURG (AP) — "It looks like a cross between a motorcycle and a hospital frame and there's where he may end up," is one spectator's reaction to LaFrance Bresson's latest creation--a one - wheel motorcycle.

Bresson concedes there are some problems in riding his contraption. "Your feet sort of rock up when you start up, but that's not hard to get used to," he said.

"It's what happens when you back off the throttle that's unnerving." The braking action tends to make the rider revolve in the same direction the wheel is turning and makes balancing difficult, the builder admitted.

Bresson is considering adding a small "idler" wheel in front which would touch the ground only when the brakes are applied.

There are other problems to be resolved too. The carburetor tends to falter as the wheel revolves and the brakes need more work, Bresson said.

But the problems are minor compared to the full year Bresson needed between the time he spotted a picture of such a cycle, vintage about 1925, in a Battle Creek motorcycle shop and his first ride.

Bresson told friends he could build such a device but there were problems -- no plans or parts for such a machine existed.

The assembly line worker at Aero-Motive Manufacturing Co. had quite a time locating a large enough wheel and tire for his machine. It seems no one makes a thing wheel at least three feet in diameter.

The search for the wheel ended in an Indiana cornfield where the 36 - inch wheel was holding up one side of an old grain drill. Bresson secured an unused tire from the same farmer's garage.

The wheel and tire were used as the cycle's "outer race". Three teflon - coated bearings were used to separate the two.

Despite what Bresson said was a relatively simple principal, the actual construction of the motorcycle was a chore. "I had to change several things as I went along and make some compromises," Bresson said. "There are also some things I would do differently if I were ever to build another."

Finally, Bresson was able to crank the 50 c.c. engine which he rebuilt from a wrecked motorcycle and putt sedately down the street at 12 miles an hour.

He made it clear in his conversation that the technical problems and experimental engineering concepts involved in construction were more attractive to him than riding the final product.

But when asked to describe riding a one-wheel motorcycle, Bresson admitted, "it's like nothing else in the world."

EAST LANSING (AP) — A Michigan State University industrial relations expert believes widows with families should be encouraged to go back to school to study nursing, teaching or community service. Dr. Daniel H. Kruger made the suggestion in recent testimony before the U.S. House Ways and Means Committee. He said widows have an unemployment rate three times that of other women, but could be retrained under funds from the Social Security Trust Fund without raising taxes.

Lions Get News Of International Meet In Tokyo

Ralph Anderson, Escanaba, Lions District Governor, discussed the highlights of the International Convention in Tokyo when he spoke to the Gladstone Lions Club Thursday evening. Anderson, who attended the convention last summer, was introduced by program chairman, Walter McClintock.

Anderson said three major objectives for Lions Clubs were set by the new International president. They include a five per cent increase in membership, an additional youth activity for each club and the establishment of youth clubs.

The first Lions Club in Michigan was formed in Marquette. Anderson reminded the group that Michigan Lions are celebrating their 50th anniversary this year.

Sgt. VanSipe of the Michigan State Police Post in Gladstone, discussed the Michigan safety patrol program for children. He said each school participating in the program will fly a green pennant under the American flag for each day in which no child in their school has been involved in an accident due to their own neglect. This program is known as the green pennant program and the Gladstone Club voted to sponsor the program locally.

Is Sen. Troy Set For Bigger Step?

LANSING (AP)— Sen. Robert Huber of Troy, mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, says he will not seek re-election to the Michigan Senate.

Huber, the controversial head of a special senate committee probing campus unrest, declined, however, to confirm talk of his possible national candidacy.

He said he would formulate 1970 political plans in another month or so.

Speaking to a Capital City Caucus Group in Lansing, Huber was critical of recent Senate passage of a $1 billion school aid bill including $25 million for private and parochial schools.

Senate President Pro Tem Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey, ruled that the bill granted state funds for private purposes and therefore under the State Constitution, would require a two-thirds vote for passage.

The Senate overturned that ruling by an 18-17 vote and passed the bill with a simple majority.

Israeli Bombers Launch Big Raid

ON THE JORDAN - ISRAEL CEASE - FIRE LINE, Israel — (AP) — Israeli fighter-bombers today launched their heaviest strike into Jordan in more than a year, blasting artillery positions for four hours without a break.

Wave upon wave of planes streaked over the Jordan River along a three-mile front, pouring tons of high explosives on the emplacements.

They flew into anti-aircraft fire but all returned.

The planes concentrated on artillery in the Gilead Mountain range facing settlements just south of the Sea of Galilee.

The raids sent plumes of smoke skyward and shook buildings 10 miles away.

Israeli farmers said the Jordanian guns lately had been joining in border skirmishes between Israeli troops and Al Fatah guerrillas.

Area Woodsmen Back Timber, Inc., Effort

RAPID RIVER—Fifty persons interested in wood operations and forest management in the Upper Peninsula endorsed efforts of Timber, Inc., at a meeting here Tuesday night under the direction of Peter Grieves and William Henrickson, manager and field manager, respectively, for the project.

Timber, Inc., was described by Grieves as a "self help" program, made possible through the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, and said that its work would be meaningful and efficient in the proportion that producers and processors gave practical suggestions and constructive criticism.

Problems Cited

He added "Henrickson and I and the entire Board of Directors are dedicated to the ideal of helping the woods industry. We believe we have some good programs going for us, but the problems that nag at some of you are those that arise in the field and we hope all of you will point out the ways in which we can be of direct assistance and show some of the ways we can travel."

All agreed that among the problems of the industry are the need for sharper management; a better understanding of the advances in mechanized equipment being used in other areas, and a need to give the industry a better image to attract younger men to it.

Basically, all these can be solved with more stable markets, improved prices and an upgrading of forest products, speakers said.

The problem remains how to achieve these in as short a time as possible and assist producers in some way during the interim period.

Films were shown to give the audience some idea of the equipment being used with success in other woods producing areas of the country and of eastern Canada, and the discussion which followed centered on the adaptability of these to conditions in northern Michigan areas.

"Bright Spot"

It was pointed out that one of the bright spots is the development of the massive Mead Corp. complex in Escanaba, but this market is still 18 to 24 months away. There is need, meanwhile, to prepare for it through larger producer units, trained woods personnel and an understanding of equipment.

There are some specialized markets available for woods producers, but at best these will affect only a few and a fractional amount of material coming out of Peninsula operations, officials said.

John Cole of the State Dept. of Labor went over the provisions of the new safety code for logging which takes effect in February, citing the responsibilities that rest with both employe and employer. Most of the practices called for are observed by a majority of producers, but the code standardizes them. It is believed that adherence to these regulations will work to minimize accidents in wood operations and reduce workman's compensation rates.

Similar meetings are planned for other areas in the Upper Peninsula.

In Service

M/Sgt. Robert Vanderlinden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Vanderlinden, Rte. 1, Gladstone, has been selected the Outstanding KC-135 recovery team chief for November. Vanderlinden is stationed at Robins AFB, Ga., with his wife, Kay, and daughter, Sherry. He also received the Squadron Pride certificate. Lt. Col. Richard Meyer said the awards were presented in recognition of Vanderlinden's "mission motivation and professional results in your daily efforts."

S. Sgt. Leslie E. Srnka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Srnka, Rte. 1, Powers, has received his second award of the U. S. Air Force Commendation Medal recently at Da Nang AB, Vietnam. Sgt. Srnka was decorated for meritorious service during a rocket attack on Da Nang. Despite the hazards of explosions and flying shrapnel, he assisted in evacuating important equipment and material from the base. Srnka, a 1959 graduate of Powers-Spalding High School, is serving as a communications technician at Da Nang. His wife, Mayme, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Poquette of Spalding.

Teachers Accept Citizens' Plan

Teachers of the Big Bay de Noc School District, who have been absent from their jobs in a dispute with the School Board over a new contract, have accepted a recommendation offered by a citizens committee.

The teachers approved of the proposal at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon at Garden, said Carl Freiburg, president of the Big Bay de Noc Education Association, which represents the teachers in contract negotations.

"The next move is up to the School Board," said Freiberg. "They can accept or reject the recommendation of the citizens committee. If they approve of it this week the teachers could be back and the schools reopened on Monday."

The disagreement seemed as wide and deep as before the citizens committee session, however, and there seemed to be no prospect of an early solution.

Frank Stupak, president of the Big Bay de Noc Schools, said the proposal or recommendation was not from the citizens committee but was from the teachers' MEA committee.

The school board does not plan further negotiations this week, he reported.

From other sources it was indicated that the proposal which the teachers have accepted, would result in an increase in their salaries above prior proposals.

The teachers group reported the proposal of the citizens committee would bring their salaries up to the Upper Peninsula average.

PTA Conference Stresses Need For Leadership

"Leadership training is no longer the private domain of industry, government or schools of business administration," said Mrs. Leo Niquette of Escanaba. "With a society as highly complex as ours, leadership training is essential for all organizations and activities in which people participate."

Mrs. Niquette, Region A Vice President of Michigan PTA, recently attended a leadership conference in Cleveland, Ohio; also attending from the Upper Peninsula were Mrs. Richard Uren, Marquette, director of District 19 and Dr. Joseph Clement, Iron Mountain, director of District 20. The conference was sponsored by the National PTA, the world's largest voluntary organization.

A continuing project of the National PTA, the conference was designed to help district directors become better acquainted with the latest innovations in leadership techniques and training.

"The conference emphasized how directors can work more effectively with local PTA's in their districts," Mrs. Niquette said. "A major topic of discussion was how the local PTA can hel psolve major school problems through cooperation with the school administration.

"The PTA should enable both home and school to understand one another's problems. It is not to be expected, of course, that parents will have detailed information on the entire school program, but they do need to understand the school's general objectives and how to help achieve them," she said.

High School Students Plan Youth Activities

PERRONVILLE—High school students from St. Michael's Church in Perronville met with Fr. Emmett Norden after Church Saturday night to organize high school youth activities for the year.

Bi-monthly meetings are planned, which will include group recreation followed by a discussion period covering a religious topic of the student's choice. Plans for the following meeting and discussion topic will be made at each meeting.

Only one meeting is planned for December. High School students are asked to meet at church at 12:45 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 7. Following group activities the young people will gather at the Tom Bartoszek home for refreshments and the discussion period. Discussion leader for the meeting is Mary Ann Shiverski.

The group also decided to take up a money making project for December, the proceeds to go to charity.

A meeting is planned for Sunday, Dec. 1 at 1 p. m. to make Christmas wreaths. Tom Pietrowski, Joe and Tom Shiverski, Corky Bartosz, and Don Wieciech are responsible for collecting greens. The girls will take care of the decorations.

In answer to a request for assistance with the Community Christmas pageant, the group elected to take complete charge of making and erecting the props. The first work session will be Monday, Dec. 2, 7 p. m. in the church basement.

Lynn and Beth Bartoszek will compose and direct the, "Dance of the Angels," for the pageant. Make-up will be in charge of Sally Johnson, Mary Ann Shiverski and Beth Bartoszek.

Holiday Hours At Post Office

The Escanaba Post Office will observe holiday hours on Thanksgiving Day Thursday.

There will be no window service, except that regular holiday lock box service will be maintained. There will be no delivery of mail by city or rural carrier service, except that special delivery service will be provided. Holiday schedules for the collection, receipt, and dispatch of mail will be observed.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Examination Set

BEULAH (AP) — A 23-year-old Benzonia man is being held without bond in the Benzie County jail here after demanding examination on an open murder charge.

Daniel Tody demanded examination Monday on the charge filed after Cecil Douglas, 42, of rural Honor, was fatally stabbed at Tody's home early Sunday. Authorities said the stabbing apparently followed an argument.

Some Tires Fail 30 Of 120 Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tires made by four major American manufacturers and said to meet government safety standards failed 30 out of 120 tests of compliance, the Department of Transportation says.

The failures in tests by independent laboratories hired by the government involved endurance, high speed performance and strength, the department announced recently.

Tests Discontinued

A tire industry spokesman, however, discounted the test results as giving "a very misleading and distorted view of the overall situation.

"The favorable experience of millions of motorists over many years with good, safe tires far outweighs the few isolated laboratory tests," said Ross R. Ormsby, chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council.

A spokesman for the Department of Transportation said the government has taken no action against manufacturers on the basis of the tests and none have been recalled.

Firms Listed

Tests involved tires made by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., B. F. Goodrich, Armstrong Rubber Co. and the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

Spokesmen for B. F. Goodrich and Firestone disputed the results, saying too few of the millions of automobile tires produced each year were tested to get a representative picture.

The department did not release a description of how the tests were conducted. It emphasized test failures do not automatically mean a safety violation, and test successes do not establish compliance.

Failures Reported

The department reported these failures:

Goodyear Power Cushion—18 in 48 tests. B. F. Goodrich Silvertown 660—6 of 18 tests: B. F. Goodrich Custom Long Miler, Silvertown 770, Silvertown 990 Raidal and Silvertown Wide Profile—no failures in 14 tests. Armstrong PT100 and PT120—5 of 26 tests. Firestone Champion and Deluxe Champion—1 of 14 tests.

The following tire characteristics were tested: endurance—freedom from failure for a prolonged period under load; high speed—freedom from failure at high-speed operation; strength—ability to withstand penetration; bead unseating—ability to adhere to rim; dimension—freedom from distortion in shape; labeling—verification of accuracy of information on the tire.

Yule Tree Ship Sails On

By Katharine H. LeBrasseur

Fifty-seven years ago Nov. 22, the three-masted package freighter Rouse Simmons sailed out of the port of Thompson, Mich., with Capt. Hermann, Schuenemann, a crew of 17, and laden with Christmas trees bound for Chicago. The vessel never arrived—was never seen or heard of—and eventually listed in the "Disasters of the Great Lakes."

Few of the present generation even remember the incident or the details connected with the historic episode.

Twelve years after the event, on April 17, 1924, another chapter was inscribed on the pages of Great Lakes history through the finding of a wallet in a fisherman's net near Kewaunee, Wis. Identification marks showed the wallet was the property of Capt. Schuenemann, well-known in Manistique. In the wallet were found newspaper clippings, presumably from the Manistique Pioneer-Tribune, personal cards, memoranda of the captain's expenses, receipted bills for oilskins, provisions, etc. The wallet, tied securely in an oil skin, was in a good state of preservation.

The next episode regarding the Christmas Tree Ship involved the fishing tug "Monitor" of Two Rivers, Wis. Capt. Manville LaFond found a human skull in May of 1924 entangled in his nets. This was the third skull he had picked up at a certain point and it was presumed that the bones were the remains of the crew of the wrecked ship.

Periodically, come November and December, interest is renewed in the fate of the Rouse Simmons and new stories are told to the younger generation regarding the shipwreck. Since Capt. Schuenemann and members of his family visited Manistique on many occasions and since many local fishermen and sailors were related to or connected with the towing, shipping of the three masted schooner, or providing the trees, there's a nostalgic aroma when the Rouse Simmons is mentioned here.

CHECK WRAPPINGS

This is the time of year the "string savers" come into their own. If you carefully unwrapped Christmas gifts last year, then folded papers and rolled up ribbons, now's the time to look over your savings. You can make ribbons look and feel like new, even tie like new, with spray sizing. Sizing, sprayed on as you press, turns last year's limp loot into "like-new" trimmings for this year's gifts.

HOLIDAY DECORATING ITEMS need not be expensive or time consuming as witnessed by the above articles made by area Extension homemakers for display at the annual holiday tea. Pictured are, a Christmas tree made from a coat hanger, a tree garland and miniature lights; a large holidy bll made from plastic medicine cups, felt Christmas coasters and knit Santa puppets. (Daily Press Photo)

Remember Needy During Holidays

What would Christmas be without gifts? And especially those gifts that help others less fortunate to enjoy a happier holiday?

The American Christmas remembers the needy.

Through many organizations from the Red Cross and Salvation Army to veterans organizations and service clubs the word is helpfulness to others at Christmastime. Businesmen sponsor special events, Santa is encouraged to visit the community ,and theaters hold free parties for the children.

Every community sees that joy comes to less fortunate members. Schools, churches, and charitable civic groups collect food and clothing to be given to the poor. Many groups give presents and entertainment to children whose parents cannot.

The happiness of Christmas is in part the gifts that go to others, the sharing that makes brighter the life of another, and in Christian spirit the doing for others what you would have them do for you.

PERENNIAL POSIES — A cheerful gift that gives year 'round pleasure is a bouquet of multi-colored flowers made from cotton calicoes, ginghams, and solids. Fabric petals are formed from two layers of fabric glued together with household cement for added stiffness. Buds are squares of fabric gathered over a loop of florist's wire.

Children Enjoy Own Decorations

Children being children, the highlight of a holiday party is the loot. But cost doesn't impress children. The loot has to look like a present but not like the one they got at the last Christmas party.

For your children's party this year why not let paper reindeers tote a variety of small gifts?

To make these traditional Santa Claus helpers, all you need are some brown paper bags from the supermarket, a roll of Christmas cotton batting, ribbon, cotton swabs for the antlers, and odds and ends of beads and sparkly stars. Fill the bag with small gifts, balloons, whistles, bubbles pipes, candy, yo-yo's, that kind of thing, then fold the sides.

To make the reindeer faces just cut three inch triangles of cotton batting and glue it to a bit of shirt cardboard for stiffness. Bits of paper will make the eyes. To make an antler, glue one swab to the reindeer head, then snip smaller pieces of the cotton swabs and glue in place as branches. Use a tiny red Christmas ball as the nose.

Cut oblong paws about 2½ inches long from the cotton batting. Glue to cardboard and attach a cotton swab to form the foreleg and hoof as the picture shows.

To add festive touches to the brown bag reindeer, scatter stars and sequins. String tiny beads as a harness.

"FRESH" CHRISTMAS TREE

A Christmas tree is fresh if the bottom of the trunk is moist and "leaks sap," if the needles bend, rather than break, and if no needles fall off when you bump the tree hard on the ground. It will retain its freshness if you make a new cut above the original, stand the tree in a bucket of water, and add one cup of molasses, sugar, or prepared Christmas - tree preservative. Trees absorb from a pint to a quart of water a day, depending upon the size.

Sights, Scents, Sounds Of Joyous Christmastime

When next you hear a Christmas carol, see a holly wreath or sniff a holiday aroma that reminds of happy times past, give a thought to the entertaining history of Christmas sights, scents and sounds.

One, "Swinging," Swiss custom, not yet imported to the United States, has to do with the selection of a future mate! If any young boy or girl drinks from nine different fountains on Christmas Eve, while the midnight church bells are swinging and ringing, and then runs to church, the future mate will be seen standing on the door steps.

Urn of Fate

Also joyously affirming that the essence of Christmas is love, a Spanish custom is the Urn of Fate. Names of friends are placed in a large bowl and on Christmas Day each person draws the name of the one who shall be his best friend till next December!

A Christmas symbol in many regions, the custom of the Christmas tree is said to be of German origin from the 8th century with Martin Luther introducing the tree lighted with candles. The holly wreath, on the other hand, goes back in time to the crucifixion. Christ's crown of thorns is reputed to have been made of holly leaves.

Mistletoe

Early Romans, ornamented their temples and homes with the pungent green boughs, decorating as well with the mistletoe they revered as a symbol of peace. Tremendous powers were attributed to the mistletoe by British Druids, and, today, the mighty power of the mostletoe makes kissing acquaintances out of strangers meeting under it during the holiday season of goodwill.

Mexican Game

In contrast to the French concept of gift-giving, adopted by many Americans, the Mexican approach is sometimes a game played with great gusto! A large jar of earthenware, called a pinata, is filled with gifts and hung from the ceiling or a tree. Blind-folded, the children then try to break the jar with a stick. When someone succeeds, they all scramble for the candy, fruit and gifts inside, filling the air with sounds of their laughter.

First Carols

Not always were Christmas sounds joyous, however, Solemnity distinguished the celebrations, prior to the 13th century. Chants and litanies were sung in Latin, too theological for popular use. Under the influence of Francis of Assisi, in 1224, carols finally arose written in the vernacular for spontaneous group singing.

EGGNOG, PLUM PUDDING, mostletoe, carolers and family get togethers are only part of the colorful, centuries-old Christmas picture. The story of this holiday spirit has provided great pleasure in both the past and the present.

In England, however, the Puritans condemned such merry celebrations and carried this feeling to America where colonists forbade festivities by law! The first settlers considered them pagan. Christmas again became a time of merriment and gift-giving around the middle of the 19th century when later immigrants arrived.

Now, today, many aspects of the Christmas celebration are enjoyed by people of all faiths, and the season includes moments of solemnity as well as festive occasions. Music, too, consists of the great works of Handel or carols adopted from many lands.

Silent Night

One of the most popular, perhaps, of all the Christmas carols is "Silent Night" ("Stille Nacht"), written because an organ broke down! Josef Mohr, parish priest in the Austrian Tyrol, 151 years ago, feared his parishioners would be disappointed at the mishap on the day of Christmas Eve.

He wrote the words, asked his friend, Franz Gruber to complete the melody, and in a few hours the two men accompanied by a guitar sang the first time on Christmas Eve in 1818. This melody has long lingered on in a world that continues to cherish a parish priest's love-gift of a song.

Early Thanksgivings Were Real 'Kickers'

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Early American Thanksgivings, Pennsylvania historians tell us, were merry, even ribald occasions for carrying on in Tom Jones fashion.

The preachers, public officials and proper Philadelphians didn't want it that way.

But the American men of the 1700's, say some history books, preferred drinking, romancing Indian women, singing in taverns, smoking hemp or partaking of opium and other drugs, and gathering in the streets to celebrate Thanksgiving Day.

Pennsylvania historians agree that the picture of Pilgrims eating turkey and singing solemn hymns just doesn't tell the whole story.

For example, consider the first Thanksgiving Day proclaimed in the colony of Pennsylvania.

As was the case with frequent Thanksgiving Day proclamations, the one on July 24, 1746, stemmed from a news event of national significance.

Gov. George Thomas, thankful for the victory of troops of King George II over rebellious Bonnie Prince Charles of Scotland. penned a statement and ordered it printed, perhaps by Benjamin Franklin, in the state capital at Philadelphia.

Carried by horseback into villages where it was posted in the square. the message ordered "a day of public thanksgiving" with "prayers and sermons suitable to the occasion."

The proclamation continued: "And that the said day may be observed with a solemnity becoming our Christian profession, and not as has been too often the practice with drunkenness and other kinds of licentiousness, to the dishonor of God & to the reproach of the Christian name . . .

"I do hereby order that the majestrates and other officers of justice be especially careful to prevent all immoralities or riotous disorders whatsoever."

The proclamation precedes by 43 years the proclamation of the first national Thanksgiving on Nov. 26, 1789.

Legends Honor St. Nicholas

He's the patron saint of pawnbrokers. He watches over mariners. Since the fourth century, he has been remembered for his generosity.

Many are the legends linked with St. Nicholas, real-life ancestor of today's Santa Claus.

But his most enduring connection is with youth and gifts. In Europe, his feast day, December 6th, has traditionally been an occasion for merriment and gifting.

GIFT BOOKS

Of all the gifts you might offer a child this year, books are among the best.

Warning Issued As Holidays Near

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — For most people the Christmas season is a time to be cheery, but to the Better Business Bureau its the season to be wary—of unscrupulous operators, swindles and gyps.

Money is plentiful during the season, and spirits are high. Inspiration flows and guards are down. People are in a hurry and they don't count their change. And the swindlers are well aware of it.

Vendor Tops Gyp

One of the most successful gyps—and its continuing popularity attests to the gullibility of men—involves a vial of perfume being sold by a street vendor.

Any woman would recognize that perfume couldn't be sold at such an absurdly low price. But to a fellow who has just left an office party and is heading home very late, the stuff looks like the magic that will ease his way into the house.

Something about the merchandising method also indicates a real buy: A cardboard carton is spread out on the sidewalk; a hurried, harried vendor stands behind it furtively trying to spot an oncoming policeman.

Husband Gullible

The gullible husband bites, ignoring his wonderment that such fancy perfume could be spirited from Paris through the customs men to be sold at a fraction of its costs from a carton on a city street. It is, of course, nothing more than cheap cologne rebottled.

Another racket is perpetrated by sending a claim stub to an individual stating that the sender is holding a package that will be sent on return of the stub and a small amount of money.

Seldom is the amount sought very large, because that might arouse the suspicions. The sum might be only $2, the very amount that forgetful Aunt Sally spends on gifts she sends to the children.

Anxious to find what gift is to arrive on return of the stub and the money, the housewife succumbs. In return she receives a gift of almost no value. The package isn't from Aunt Sally. In fact, it has no return address.

Neighborly Swindle

Another swindle capitalizes on concern for your neighbor, which often is warmer during the cold holidays than it was back on those summer mornings when he started his power mower at 6:30.

"Would you please accept a package for Mr. Jones next door?" the messenger asks Mr. Smith, adding innocently, "It's C.O.D."

The magnanimous man of the house, anxious to get back to his television set, hands over the money and receives a strangely light package. By the time his suspicions are aroused the young messenger has scooted away.

Hollow Laugh Noted

What is Mr. Smith to do but wait for Mr. Jones to come home and then walk over with the package? Mr. Smith opens it and they both have a laugh. Mr. Smith's laugh is as hollow as the box though, because he pays.

Then there are the charities. In many cities young men and women have made comfortable livings in recent months merely by sticking out their hands and asking for cash. And cash has been pressed into their hands.

With this knowledge of just how easy it is to beg effectively, many of these same people will be holding out something that holds more money than a palm. It will be a cup, and the inference will be that the money is for charity.

Charity Probe Eyed

The customary warnings, from the Better Business Bureau and others, state that any charity should be investigated before a donation is made. But on a snowy, windy, dark night, how is one to investigate? It's impossible.

The biggest surprise of all, however, may not involve gyps. It does involve forgetfulness, and since the effect can be the same, the BBB reminds you this holiday season:

If you're buying a battery-operated toy, check before Christmas to see if it needs batteries.

GRACEFUL SPRAYS

Dip sprays of your favorite evergreen into white paint, dust with artificial snow, and arrange around a platter heaping with balls. Let the pointed sprays extend several inches at each end of the arrangement for a graceful effect.

Santa Claus Has Origins In America

Hear them? They're sleigh-bells — and we all know what that means! Santa's here, and with him arrives one of the oldest, happiest, and best loved traditions of the Christmas season.

Today, of course, it just wouldn't be Christmas without Santa Claus, but it is interesting to ponder just where the jolly old gent got his start, and it might be surprising to learn that it wasn't really the North Pole.

The name Santa Claus, itself, is an American derivation of the name St. Nicholas, an early fourth century bishop in Asia Minor, according to the editors of the Encyclopedia International.

Santa was first brought to this country by the early Dutch settlers, who called him Sinterklaas. Those Dutch burghers portrayed him as a merry old man, sometimes even with a wife they called Molly Grietje.

Santa also looked a little different then, and he wore a wide-brimmed black hat, short Dutch breeches, and smoked a long clay pipe.

Later, the British brought their own Father Christmas to America — a happy, roly-poly Falstaffian figure.

Inevitably, Sinterkaas and Father Christmas became one. Add to this the Norwegian's Kriss Kringle, with his sleigh and reindeer, and the picture is nearly complete.

It was finally the task of American artists and writers to create an image of Santa Claus such as we know today. Washington Irving, among others, contributed to the concept of Santa as a jolly holiday figure, while Clement Moore, in his famous "Visit from St. Nicholas" ("'Twas the Night Before Christmas"), added to the concept.

However, the notion of Santa Claus which really captured the imagination of young and old alike was drawn by the American cartoonist Thomas Nast in 1863.

Yes, that's Santa all right, with his fur-trimmed suit, shiny black boots and long white beard. Just the way we've always known him — or so it seems.

LETTER TO SANTA — David Kordish, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kordish of Christmas, mails his letter to Santa Claus early from the Christmas Post Office. Accepting it for routing to the North Pole is Wanda Wilder, one of the two employes who will assist Postmaster Evelyn Borbot during the holiday season. At right is a picture of the exterior of Santa's Reindeer Shop at Christmas, which houses the community's post office.

Christmas Post Office Set For Holiday Mail

CHRISTMAS—This tiny Upper Michigan community, with only a handful of families, has one of the smallest post offices in the country. But at this time of year it is one of the most popular.

The postal workers now are trying to keep pace with a steadily increasing flow of mail from souvenir hunters who want a "Christmas, Mich.," postmark on their greeting cards and gift parcels.

Orders Filled

During the peak of the Christmas season last year, workers handled more than 5,000 pieces of mail a day, according to Miss Evelyn Borbot, the postmaster. That would be a considerable volume for communities much larger than Christmas, whose population is listed at 75.

Miss Borbot has two assistants, Wanda Wilder and Frances Hebert. Their jobs includes placing the Christmas cancellation on the mail by hand, which most of the senders prefer, and filling mail orders for the Christmas stamp.

"We hope to be No. 1 in the nation for Christmas cancellations this year," Miss Borbot said. "Last year we were exceeded only by the post office in Santa Claus, Ind., which has been in existence much longer than we have."

The post office here had the first day issue of the Christmas stamp in November, 1967. Since then requests for the holiday stamp and cancellations have poured in from all over the world. The first foreign request this season was from Barcelona, Spain.

Thousands Stop In

The Christmas post office is located, appropriately enough, in Santa's Reindeer shop. And it is decorated with a holiday motif the year round, both inside and out. During the summer, thousands of tourists stop in, many of them leaving letters and packages for holiday mailing.

In an effort to accommodate the visitors, the post office remains open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. seven days a week.

To help speed up the service, Miss Borbot emphasizes the importance of using the Christmas zip code—49862—on all requests. "If this is eliminated from letters sent here," she said, "it will cause lengthy delays."

A BRONCO for a young cowboy or girl would look mighty handsome under the Christmas tree. So, Dad or Granddad, begin looking over your odds and ends of wood. This is an important gift you can make with either hand or power tools. Pattern 384, which gives full-size guides and complete directions, is 50c. It also is one of four patterns in the Make-it-for-the-Children Packet No. 70 for $1.50.

"I bought a pool table for my recreation room," said Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State's pixie football coach. "I want my son to have the same educational advantages I had as a boy." There's more wisdom than whimsy in Duffy's decision. MENKE'S ENCYCLOPEDIA OF SPORTS calls pool ". . . the most scientific of games, requiring superlative control of nerves as well as co-ordination of the muscular system."

When Duffy was a boy, "those wedding bells were breaking up that old gang of mine," to the consternation of pool parlor proprietors. But, says Irv Lieberman of National Recreational, those wedding bells have created the biggest boom the industry has known.

Spirit Of Christmas Spreads Joy Widely

By ANNA MANG

"Merry Christmas, one and all."

With this simple and sincere greeting, all the warmth and excitement of Christmas reaches its peak.

In this community, as in cities and towns throughout the nation and around the world, days and weeks of list-making, gift-shopping, home-decorating, party - planning and Christmas - program - rehearsing are reaching a happy culmination.

Families gather, Santa enters, church bells ring. Christmas arrives!

Every year, Christmas seems to generate more eager anticipation, here and everywhere, with earlier and more enthusiastic planning — appropriately, for part of the spirit and the joy of Christmas is in the planning.

The spirit of Christmas starts with thoughtfulness. It begins in the hearts of each of us. It grows with a hope, a wish, a prayer.

It shows itself, outwardly, in such manifestations as merry songs and bountiful gifts, and in the festive decorations and glowing lights now adorning local streets and stores, homes and churches.

It expresses itself, most deeply, in private devotions and in special services such as those scheduled by local churches.

It is a spirit abounding in legend and lore, in customs and traditions honored through the years. And most of all, it is the spirit of reverence and joy that shepherds and wise men knew.

To capture that spirit is to keep Christmas truly and well, for it enriches all the things this wonderful season stands for.

For Children . . .

Christmas is for children. Candies and cookies and all those holiday goodies, trees gaily adorned and brightly lighted, Santa's pack stuffed with surprises — all these things are planned and prepared just for the children.

Or at least, so the grown-ups say, and who's to doubt them?

In a still more special way, Christmas is for children. The manger scene in homes and churches ever reminds us that the Child born in Bethlehem was He who later said, "Suffer little children to come onto me."

For Rejoicing . . .

Christmas is for rejoicing. Since first the herald angels sang, this rejoicing has most often found expression in music and song.

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men," the angels sang.

Now as in earliest times, the spirit of joy and wonder echoes anew in the hymns and carols of Christmas.

For Giving . . .

Christmas is for giving. The eagerness of children waiting for Santa, the excited plotting and planning that goes into the choosing and wrapping of gifts, the packages heaped beneath the tree happily symbolize the spirit of Christmas.

Even as the Wise Men gave of their most precious treasures, to honor Him, so people give generously at Christmas, and true generosity stems from thoughtfulness — giving with open heart as well as open hand.

For Sharing . . .

Christmas is for sharing. Thus giving to the less fortunate is a traditional part of the Christmas spirit.

Joy grows through sharing, says the holiday message, and sharing is most blessed when it extends not only to those near and dear but to those known only through their need.

For Greetings . . .

Christmas continues as it begins, with "Merry Christmas, one and all." And as long as the spirit of this cheerful greeting prevails, Christmas never really ends.

Yes, Christmas is for greetings, to family, friends and neighbors. "Merry Christmas, one and all," we say, and the spirit of Christmas lives forever in the words.

HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS

Don't let accidents at home or on the road mar an otherwise festive season!

It seems ironic that most of the motoring mishaps, including the fatalities, occur within twenty miles of the victim's home.

Don't YOU be a statistic! Have fun, but always keep in mind the hazards of more people on the road, more people milling about in the home, and more chances for an accident.

A CHRISTMAS WELCOME is extended to all with this Santa by the door. He also will make a colorful focus point for indoor decorations. Try him beside the Christmas tree for the fireplace or in the hall. Pattern 359, which gives actual cutting and painting guides, is 50c. This also is one of four full-size patterns in the Christmas Cut-Out Packet No. 55 — all for $1.50.

Home Movies 'Save' The Day

A home movie of Christmas Day with the whole family gathered together is fun to make and a marvelous way to preserve the spirit and excitement of the occasion.

Children are bright-eyed with anticipation and the house is decorated for the season. This is a warm, colorful scene guaranteeing a perfect home movie setting.

Start the movie of Christmas Day with a close-up of the tree. Close-ups are the spice of home movies and most movies lack a sufficient number of them. Also, be sure there aren't any shiny, reflective surfaces in your scene. They will produce glare spots unless you shoot the scene from at least a 45-degree angle to avoid the reflection.

Include all the people and important happenings of the day. Get lots of action and variety to your movie.

Be careful not to jump from scene to scene too quickly, try to average 12-15 seconds for each scene. If possible, include family members exchanging gifts, friends dropping by to share the warmth of the occasion and the Christmas feast with everyone gathered around the table.

This film will help you relive this special day for many years to come.

Swedish Cookies Are Delicious, Decorative

Christmas trees in Sweden are adorned with distinctive ornaments. Typical are twinkling tinsel, long golden ropes, paper hearts, polished red apples and decorated home-baked ginger cookies. At the tip of each branch there is a tiny candle. When the tree is lighted, it looks like something out of fairyland.

Swedish Christmas cookies for hanging on the tree are traditionally flavored with spices and molasses. Their Swedish name, Pepparkakor, even sounds spicy. Each cookie is outlined with a thin stream of confectioners' sugar icing pushed through a pastry tube. Colored sugars, sprinkles and candied fruits are used for color.

As decorative as they are delicious, Swedish Holiday Snaps (Pepparkakor) are fragrantly flavored with molasses, ginger, cinnamon and cloves.

Swedish Holiday Snaps (Pepparkakor)

¾ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¾ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup (1 stick) margarine
⅔ cup sugar
1 egg
⅔ cup light molasses
Confectioners' sugar frosting
Colored sugars and
Colored sprinkles
Candied cherries

Sift together flour, baking soda, ginger, cinnamon and cloves; set aside.

Cream margarine. Gradually add sugar; beat until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and molasses. (Mixture will appear curdled.) Thoroughly blend in dry ingredients. Wrap dough in plastic wrap; chill overnight.

On a floured board, roll dough, one-fourth at a time, to a ⅛-inch thickness. Keep remaining dough refrigerated to prevent softening. Cut the dough into various shapes with cookie cutters dipped in flour. Using a straw, cut small holes near tops of cookies. Place on greased baking sheets. Refrigerate scraps and re-roll. Repeat with remaining dough. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 8 to 10 minutes, or until done. Place on wire racks to cool.

When cool, decorate with confectioners' sugar frosting, piping a thin outline around each shape. Garnish as desired with colored sugars and sprinkles. When frostings are dry, string colored ribbons through holes, tie bows and hang on trees. Makes about 9 dozen cookies.

When Families Gather, It's Christmas

Through the years, the ways of celebrating Christmas have taken on many different forms.

Today's Christmas tree is apt to be plastic or aluminum, rather than nature's own fir, spruce or pine. The glow of tiny beeswax candles on a tree is only a memory, replaced now by strings of twinkling electric lights.

Jolly Santa, once transported only by reindeer-drawn sleigh, may now arrive by helicopter, jet plane or boat.

But in spite of changes, the essence of the season, the basic spirit of Christmas stays the same.

Chrismastide is, above all, a time of togetherness and rejoicing. And a modern Christmas, just like an old-fashioned Christmas, calls for gatherings of family and friends, with much merriment, fun and feasting.

In this community, families celebrate the holidays with just such gatherings, such merriment, fun and feasting.

Like families of yesteryear, they celebrate with gifts and greens, with the warmth of a glowing hearth and the gleam of a lighted tree, with stockings hung by the chimney with care and even with candles, though these beckon brightly from candleholders rather than from the tree.

Exchanging Gifts

Exchanging gifts at Christmas is one of the most time-honored of customs, and toys, dolls and games for the children have always ranked high on the gifts list.

In the not-so-long-ago, however, just one important present—a doll for a little girl, perhaps, and a toy accordion for her brother—was all that youngsters might expect at Christmas.

Though Santa is more bountiful nowadays, the gifts he brings are like those of yesteryear in at least one way. They reflect the interests and fashions of their times.

Dolls, yesterday and today, dress in the favorite styles of the moment. Toys, too, show the influence of current events.

Toy racing cars, for instance, came in with the automobile, while today more complex types of wheel toys take advantage of modern technological developments.

Using Greens

Use of greens and garlands to decorate for a festive season goes back a thousand years before the birth of Christ. The custom began with the ancient Egyptians.

Many of the traditions of pagan festivals were later merged with the celebration of Christmas, and evergreens, because they stay green throughout the year, came to be regarded as the Christmas symbol of eternal life.

Decorating The Tree

Many ancient legends associate trees with Christmas. One is that on the first Holy Night, all the trees of the forest blossomed and bore fruit.

The idea of adorning the Christmas tree with ornaments may have started with an attempt to create the effect of snow on the branches. Strings of popcorn and tufts of cotton were used.

Lighting The Tree

Martin Luther started the custom of lighting the tree, legend says.

To symbolize stars glowing forth on a snow-filled winter's night, he placed lighted candles on his family't traditional Christmas tree.

Burning The Log

Today's fireplaces, though smaller in scale than those of yesteryear, symbolize at the Christmas season the age-old custom of burning the log.

The Yule log was adapted to Christmas celebrations from the Scandinavian practice of building huge bonfires at the winter solstice. Fire represented the spring sun, soon to return.

Hanging Stockings

St. Nicholas, so legend says, secretly gave gifts of gold for the dowries of poor spinsters. He tossed the gold down a chimney on Christmas Eve, and on one occasion the gift landed in a stocking hung by the fireplace to dry.

A tangerine or an orange in the toe of a stocking has come to be symbolic of the gifts of gold.

Tiny Kashmir

Kashmir lies squeezed in a vise of converging nations, in the Himalayan foothills between heat-baked plains and mountains of eternal snow.

Divided and disputed by India and Pakistan, the beautiful mountain state feels icy winds from the Himalayas dominated by China and China - held Tibet.

From the north, Soviet Russia reaches to within a few miles of Kashmir, and Afghanistan slips between Russia and Pakistan to touch the Kashmir border.

Four million people live within its 86,000 square miles, an area roughly the size of Utah.

TRIMMING THE TREE

Here's how to trim the tree: Start at the top and work down. The tree trimmer who starts elsewhere runs not only the risk of knocking off some of the ornaments but knocking over the tree, as well.

The Meaning Of Christmas

By REV. SMITH L. LAIN

Christmas is the time when . . .

We make approximately 75 per cent of our yearly profits. The time roughly between Thanksgiving and Christmas is our busiest season in the store. Easter is busy, too, but nothing like Christmas.

—a retail merchant

My wife and I think mostly about the kids. We had lots of fun when we were growing up, and we want our kids to have fun, too. Sure, we may go a little overboard on toys and all that sort of thing, but what the heck? Christmas is for kids, isn't it?

We really go all out on music. Last year we hired a brass quartet to accompany the boys' choir. The congregation really loved it. The only trouble is that this year we'll have to come up with something even better or they'll thi[illegible]

—a church organist

People think they are celebrating an h[illegible]ut they really aren't, you know. No one knows the exact date of Jesus' birth. The primitive church didn't even celebrate Christmas. Eventually the church settled on December 25th as a way to baptize an already popular, pagan holiday to celebrate the fact that the depth of winter was over and the days were getting longer again.

—a historian

Some of us got leave. Next Christmas I'll be home, I hope. It's a time when everybody should be home.

—a serviceman overseas

I get tired. The kids are on vacation, I have a thousand and one things to do — 500 cards to address, a half-dozen parties to go to, for the children and Bob, a dinner party for Bob's boss and his snooty wife, get the tree and decorate it.

—a suburban housewife

People at Christmas time are kind of funny, kind of sad, kind of lonesome. Some are really happy no matter what reasons. Are these people really facing up to what Christmas is really all about? I wonder.

I have a copy of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible on my desk, and so I opened it and began to look through it, remembering what these people had said about Christmas. Here are some of the passages I found.

I found an expression of the wonder and humility of a mother expecting her first child, but a child unlike others: And Mary said:

"My soul magnifies the Lord and my spirit rejoices in God my Savior, for he has regarded the low estate of his handmaiden.
For behold, henceforth all generations will call me blessed;
For he who is mighty has done great things for me, and holy is his name . . ." (Luke 1:46-49)

I found the simple, moving story of Christ's birth;

"And Joseph also went up from Galilee, from the city of Nazareth, to Judea, to the city of David ,which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David, to be enrolled with Mary, his betrothed, who was with child. And while they were there, the time came for her to be delivered. And she gave birth to her first-born son and wrapped him in swalding clothes and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn." (Luke 2:4-7)

And further on I found the joyous message of the angels to the shepherds on the hillside outside Bethlehem:

". . . I bring you good news of great joy which will come to all people; for to you is born this day . . . A Savior, who is Christ the Lord." (Luke 2:11-12)

But perhaps, most important of all, I found the story of Christ's life, a life which changed the history of the world and of the relationships between men. He said:

"Blessed are you poor, for yours is the kingdom of God."
"Blessed are you that hunger now, for you shall be satisfied."
"Blessed are you that weep now, for you shall laugh."
"Blessed are you when men hate you, and when they exclude you and revile you, and cast out your name as evil on account of the Son of man! Rejoice in that day, and leap for joy, for behold, your reward is great in heaven . . ." (Luke 6:20-23)

And further on:

"Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, bless those who curse you, pray for those who abuse you. To him who strikes you on the cheek, offer the other also . . ." (Luke 6:27-29)

For the message of Christmas is not just the familiar and beautiful story of the birth of Christ and of its meaning for mankind. Christmas is the time when we remember the promise fulfilled by the man who was born on Christmas. The people I have quoted — people not unlike many of us — have forgotten the true meaning of Christmas because they have forgotten the promise of Christmas.

The truth of Christmas and the renewal of our belief in the real message of Christmas lies both in our understanding of the simple and at the same time awesome fact of Christ's birth and in our realization of the intimate and immediate way the fulfilled life of Christ touched and touches our lives.

Poinsettia Shows Season's Colors

Showing the colors of Christmas, red and green, the tropical poinsettia adorns many homes at the holiday season. Though it is now a favorite holiday houseplant, the poinsettia is a relative newcomer to the customs of Christmas.

It was discovered by, and later named for, Joel R. Poinsett. When he was serving as U. S. minister to Mexico in 1828, Dr. Poinsett sent a cutting of the plant to a friend.

Growers became interested but it was not until 1906 that the poinsettia was marketed.

In a recent article the American Medical Association said: "This is a push button age. With a flick of your wrist you can watch a sports event, wash the dinner dishes, or adjust the heat. Sure, automated living is easy; but it eases your muscles out of needed exercise."

Regular exercise can do more than improve muscle tone. It replaces fatigue and boredom, reduces nervous tension, controls inches more effectively than diet alone, helps your digestion and strengthens your heart and lungs.

If you do decide on a planned regular exercise program, you would do well to ask your physician's advice about types and amounts. He will suggest activities suited to your age, sex and physical condition.

Stained Glass Windows Shed Radiance In World

Biblical stories and personages come to life in a blaze of color. Light and color combine to create an ever-changing mosaic. From dawn to day to dark, patterns vary with the light. Designs seem to live and move as colors change in intensity.

While Christians around the world gather to celebrate the holy festival of Christmas, these dazzling effects add to the beauty and solemnity of the celebration, as stained glass windowks shed their radiance throughout churches large and small.

The art of creating stained glass windows is ancient—known in the ages before recorded history began, say the editors of the Encyclopedia Americana. Yet the windows themselves seem always new. As light plays upon the colors of the glass, the living beauty of the windows is constantly renewed and reborn. Appropriately, the age-old yet ever new story of the Nativity is a favorite subject for these windows. Through the centuries, artist craftsmen have preserved the spirit of the first Christmas, in stained glass.

Why It Began

Thus for countless worshippers this Christmastide, the light that shines through the stained glass windows of their churches illuminates the wonder of Christmas.

The "why" of using stained glass windows in churches—and secular buildings, too—is simple and logical. Like all windows, they're intended to admit light and keep out wind and weather.

Colored glass helps in controlling both the amount and the quality of light admitted to buildings. And the combination of light and color forms patterns appealing and restful to the eye.

Traditionally, stained glass windows complement the architectural design of the building where they appear.

How It Began

The "how" of creating stained glass windows is complicated—in some respects as difficult and time-consuming as it was in the Middle Ages, although modern methods and equipment do give today's stained glass artist certain advantages.

The rainbow-like effect of the windows comes from pieces of glass—sometimes, hundreds of pieces—fitted together and held together with strips of lead.

Today's artists don't have to make their own glass, leads and pigments. That's one advantage they enjoy that was denied to the early artist craftsman.

But they do have to plan and work painstakingly, from the beginning of a scale drawing in precise colors through the development of actual - size paper patterns and on to such final steps as firing, glazing and cementing.

What It Shows

The art of stained glass windows reflects nearly every artistic style and movement of the past several centuries, including Romanesque, Byzantine, Gothic, Renaissance, Romantic and modern.

Until the late Gothic period, artists believed that a stained glass window should be decorative rather than pictorial. With the Renaissance came a trend toward illustration rather than design.

In succeeding years, the balance has shifted between the traditionally decorative and the more pictorial styles.

How It Continues

A relatively small band of artists keeps the art of the stained glass window alive.

In a discussion of stained glass art in North and South America, the Americana lists some 24 artists working in stained glass, in studios throughout the United States, as well as others in Canada, Mexico and South America.

Among them are revivalists, who work in terms of the earliest traditions of stained glass. Other artists take the contemporary approach, but their use of free forms carries out the belief that light and pattern, rather than illustration, make a picture in stained glass.

STAINED GLASS WINDOWS by the hundreds depict scenes of the Nativity. Perhaps the most favored subject for these windows is the Virgin Mother and Child. In medieval times, stained glass art reached its peak. A simple sincerity characterizes early windows, such as the Madonna and Child window shown above, at right. A medieval artist whose name is lost in history designed this window for a church in Switzerland. Illustration from Chicago Art Institute. As a living art, stained glass continues to be the medium for creations picturing Madonna and Child. Illustration at the left is from a window designed by the New Jersey artist George Spiers, for the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany in Allendale, N. J. Modern interpretation of the Madonna and Child, center, is from a stained glass window designed by Emil Frei, for St. Peter's Church in Kansas City, Mo. Illustrations from Encyclopedia Americana 1969.

Foods Flavor Celebrations

"What's for dessert?"

At Christmas, the traditional answer to this question in England, the United States and Canada is, "Mince pie and plum pudding."

One legend says that it brings good luck to eat mince pie on Christmas day.

In earlier times, mince pies were baked in an oblong shape meant to represent the manger.

Plum pudding, too, has its legend of luck, but here the good luck comes in the making of the pudding. Every member of the family must stir the pudding while it's being made, if good fortune is desired, says an old English tradition.

Fruit cake is one of many specially-baked cakes that are part of the food-and-feasting customs of Christmas. These also are said to bring good fortune and good health.

Rich, elaborate cookies and special breads add to the flavor of the holiday season.

ABOUT GREENS

Many Christmas greens used today were once pagan symbols. Flowers and leafy boughs were used in Roman rites. The Saxons used holly, ivy and bay in their religious observances.

Christmas: Day Of Humble Peace

The splendor and beauty that accompanies today's observance of Christmas is many centuries distant in time and place and setting to the humble stable in Bethlehem where Jesus Christ was born.

Rich music swells from the beautifully decorated churches, shops and stores are crowded with merchandise that is the envy of most other nations of the world, and even in Bethlehem there are processions on Christmas Eve with church dignitaries decked in magnificent robes.

The most joyous and blessed day of the year has brought with its observance many traditions other than those of Christianity. But from the day the Christ child lay in the humble manger nearly 2,000 years ago, the message of Christmas has held always the same meaning:

"Glory to God in the highest; and on earth peace, good will toward men."

The joy of Christmas is of particular significance in these days of trouble, of international strife, ill-will among men, and war and hatred of war, social unrest and political rivalry.

The mracle of the holiday is its enduring value—the lift of the spirit, the rise of hope, and ascending optimism in keeping with the festive season.

Aside from the commercial aspects of the holidays there are reverent and solemn moments of wonder, when the light of candles shines like stars in the eyes of young children, church bells peal forth a song of celebration, and worshippers try to understand more fully the greatest promise to mankind—"and on earth peace, good will toward men."

The list of "miracle" drugs that have been developed within the last two or three decades is an amazing one. It's been said that there is no other period in history during which so many advances have been made in protecting the health of so many people.

There's been a similar explosion in the amount of information that every member of the health team must have. Your doctor is attending more post - graduate courses; your pharmacist is reading more professional journals; your nurses and technicians are constantly relearning new techniques. All of these have one objective in common: improving the patient's treatment.

"It's not enough for a wonderful new drug to be developed by a researcher in a remote laboratory. It must be manufactured in quantity and distributed throughout the country so that your doctor will have it when he needs it — even if he needs that particular medication only once a year. This is the parmacist's key role today — making sure that the complex life-saving and life-extending drugs are on hand when needed.

But it's not just a matter of taking pills off the shelf and putting them into a bottle. The druggist's knowledge of the constant developments in pharmacology is an aid to the physician who may seldom have to deal with certain medicines. It is the pharmacist who is expected to provide an impartial, professional opinion on the drugs' usefulness, the possible side-effects and other data needed to protect your health.

From Teen-Age Movie Maker:

Animated Mouse Solves Yule Problem

Once upon a time in Bloomington, Ind., there lived a small mouse who was a very woeful character, barred from his mouse house by a rock that rolled down a hill and blocked the front door on Christmas Eve.

Peter was the mouse's name, given him by a 16-year-old film-maker named Gerald D. Reynolds, who wrote and produced "Peter's Christmas."

The Plot Thickens

Since it was the day before Christmas (in the film) and Peter had to be in bed if he was to receive any presents from Santa, Peter tried everything to move the rock.

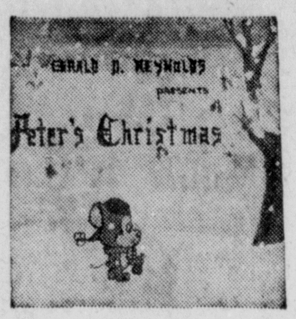
Finally, his thoughts of Santa inspired him. He slid down the chimney just in time to have a merry Christmas after all.

And just in time to win a prize for his creator in the Kodak Teen-Age Movie Awards competition.

For "Peter's Christmas," Gerald Reynolds won a special award for cartoon animation. The film included more than 800 drawings—half on paper and half on celluloid—and 25 backgrounds.

From the judges he got high praise — "remarkably well-done," "good job of animation," "displays considerable technical and creative ability."

Gerald was one of hundreds of young film-makers in the competition that Kodak sponsors annually in cooperation with the University Film Foundation on behalf of the University Film Association, whose members serve as the judges and the Council for International Non-theatrical Events, which chooses films from among the winners for showing at foreign film festivals.



"PETER'S CHRISTMAS" tells the story of a mouse barred from his mouse house on Christmas Eve. The film, by Gerald D. Reynolds, won a special award in the Kodak Teen-Age Movie Awards competition.

Communicating Ideas

Most of all he is a member of today's young film generation, a group to which the camera is almost as familiar as the pencil for communicating ideas.

Young people all over the country are making films today. Students at Drake High School in San Anselmo, Calif., produced "The Idaho Test," a satire on standardized testing.

A group of Long Island students produced "For Whom The Torch Burns," a 90-minute thriller spoofing a plot to kidnap the Statue of Liberty.

And teen-agers in Richmond, Calif., made "The Dream Blowers—A Story of Sand, Sound and Soul," a 16mm dream fantasy, for $100.

In addition to the high school crowd, movie-making appeals to innercity groups. It's especially booming on the college campus where an estimated 2,500 courses in film production and appreciation are currently offered in the United States.

For Fun Or Career

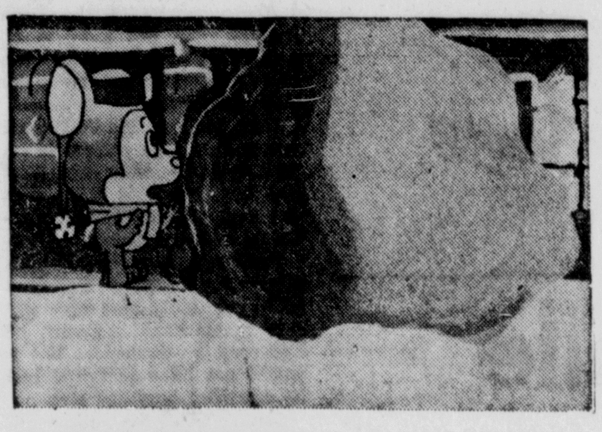
Most of these young people make movies for the sheer joy of it, but for some movie-making is pointing the way to career opportunities.

"I would like to have a small animation studio or work for one," says Gerald Reynolds, who also is interested in television writing.

For Gerald, "Peter's Christmas" gave a chance to tell the story as he envisioned it.

And for all the movie generation, encouraged by new easy-to-use cameras and dedicated to seriousness of purpose, the movie route appears the most natural, creative way in the world to make a statement.

A MOUSE AND HIS CHRISTMAS PROBLEM is the subject of an animated cartoon called "Peter's Christmas." The story begins happily on December 23rd, when Peter's mother sends him to the store for some groceries. The delectable teen-age mouse is his sister, Ellen.



PROBLEMS START POPPING up when Peter returns from the store with a big bag of cheese. He finds that a huge rock has rolled off a passing truck and is barring the entrance to the Mouse House. He tries pushing, shoving and leverage with a big stick, but to no avail.

PETER TRIES ALL OF December 23rd and 24th, but still the rock bars the doorway. Knowing that Santa won't leave him any presents unless he is in bed, he falls to the ground crying. But then he gets a brilliant idea. If Santa can slide down the chimney so can Peter!

PETER FINDS THE GOING rougher about half way down, since he is new at chimney-sliding compared to Santa. But our hero does manage it and snuggles down into bed just before Santa arrives with his presents. And so Peter has a very Merry Christmas after all.

Merrily, Bells Ring For Holiday

Zurich, Switzerland, has long been noted for its beautiful bells, say the editors of the New Book of Knowledge.

Every Christmas Eve, the Zurich bells ring out loud and clear, calling families to church.

This same tradition is repeated in thousands of other cities, where chimes and bells ring out at midnight from the steeples and spires of churches.

Bells contribute to the sights as well as the sounds of the holiday season. They are a popular decoration and are used as ornaments on trees.

Tradition has it that bells inspired Clement C. Moore to write his famous poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas." The inspiration came from listening to the merry jingle of bells on his horses' harness, as he drove along on a frosty winter night.

Give Thanks!

Thanksgiving in the United States, a holiday which dates to 1621 when the Pilgrims from the Maywlower set aside a day to give thanks to God for a good harvest, has changed considerably in those 348 years.

Although it remains a religious holiday, Thanksgiving is a national holiday proclaimed by President Abraham Lincoln in 1863 — the third year of the Civil War — when he believed that the Union had been saved and most people today, while table grace to God is a part of the traditional Thanksgiving dinner, know little and care less about the state of the nation's harvest.

They are more interested in how the Turkey Day football games come out and television will take care of that this year with a six-course menu running from noon into the night — a diet that will tax the appetite of even the most enthusiatic armchair quarterback.

Yet, as the problems of the world — Vietnam, pollution, over-population, hunger, the threat of nuclear war, racism — seem to grow increasingly complex and more difficult to solve there are reasons to "give thanks" on this holiday.

We are thankful that there hasn't been a nuclear bomb exploded in hostility since World War II, that despite Korea and Vietnam the world has managed to avoid another global conflict.

We are thankful the nation is waking up to the problems of water and air pollution and is taking strides at all levels — not only through government regulation but through industrial awareness — to institute more and better controls;

We are thankful for the food which will be on our tables Thanksgiving Day;

We are thankful for the opportunity to live and work in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan with all its natural beauty and opportunity;

We are thankful for the education provided our children in the schools of the nation that they might learn to be better citizens;

We are thankful for the safe return of Apollo 12 astronauts, who overcame launch problems with lightning and safely landed and departed the moon;

We are thankful for the United States of America and all that it has come to stand for.

It is easy to complain about the lot of the world and nation, to demonstrate against the injustices and the Vietnam war, to protest the social ailments and to cry out against violence in the streets. It is easy to condemn high taxes, inflation and the cost of living. It is easy to be selfish.

Of course the United States isn't perfect. What nation is?

There are people who tomorrow probably won't get anything to eat. Others will dine in skid row bread lines and others will dine only because someone has donated the fixings.

But as you pause for a Day of Thanksgiving take stock of the nation. Give thanks for what you have and give thanks, also, for the greatest gift in the world — freedom.

Without it, things could be much worse.

"THE PEACE MARCH WAS TOO PEACEFUL!"

U.S. Yields While Soviets Stay Firm

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

At the moment of writing, President Nixon is engaged in discussions with Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan on the problem of the island of Okinawa, the largest of the Ryukyu chain which we took in World War II at the cost of much blood.

Whether Sato gets what he wants will depend on the need to sustain his "face" vis-a-vis his own radicals, and maybe it won't change the realities anyway. The point is that Japan depends on the U.S. for nuclear "umbrella" protection, and even if we are to give the Japanese a veto action over anything we do on Okinawa in a military way, it is hard to see how Tokyo could resist letting us use the bases on the island to defend the general peace of the Far East.

Editors Note: The United States has agreed to return Okinawa to Japan's rule in 1972, retaining such military bases as it requires for the security of both countries, according to an announcement last Friday by President Nixon and Japan's Prime Minister Sato.)

What is more interesting than the nominal control of Okinawa is the fact that the controversy over its status sheds a baleful light on the double standard which much of the world has come to accept when it discusses the "imperialism" of the Americans.

The U.S. fought the Japanese for four bitter years after our fleet was slugged at Pearl Harbor. We carried the brunt of the war in the Pacific on our own, through with some help from the Australians.

The foxy Russians, who had remained quiescent while the Japanese were spilling out all over the western Pacific, let MacArthur's soldiers and Nimitz's sailors and marines fight all the way back to the Philippines and Okinawa from New Guinea and Hawaii. Then, just as the Japanese were about to sue for peace, Stalin gave the signal that sent Soviet troops into Manchuria.

One does not waste time blaming a nation for opportunism, but this was what Fascist Italy had done in the early days of World War II when, after it was apparent that France was about to capitulate to Hitler, the jackal Mussolini decided he would get what he could of the corpse of the French Third Republic.

The difference between Mussolini and Stalin was that the latter managed to hang on to his prey; his military forces took the Kurile Islands, which stretch between Hokkaido, the northernmost island of Japan, and Soviet Kamchatka peninsula.

The Kuriles were like Okinawa, something that Japan could claim more or less legitimately in the light of history. But where the U.S. has been willing to discuss the return of Okinawa to Japan, the Soviet Union shows absolutely no disposition whatsoever to disgorge what it took in a Far Eastern war that had demanded no sacrifice.

It was just about a month ago that the Japanese Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi journeyed to Moscow seeking a return of some of the Kuriles. The answer was "nyet."

Again, one does not waste time bemoaning the Soviet lack of sensitivity in diplomatic matters; hard dealing is what anyone expects of Moscow. But where were the young Japanese radicals while Aichi was getting the cold shoulder? If they were out demonstrating against "Muscovite imperialism," it somehow didn't appear in western newspapers.

There was plenty of news, however, of radical student demonstrations against the U.S. for its failure to give up Okinawa even before Sato went to Washington. And in the U.S. itself, the manipulators of the various moratoria did not couple any agitation against the "imperialistic Russians" with their denunciations of U.S. "Imperialism" in South Vietnam.

The American "anti-imperialists" do not seem to care what the Soviets do to protect and further their control of half the world, and they always seem to carry Sen. J. William Fulbright with them. But one Senator, Harry Byrd of Virginia, is alive to the workings of the double standard regarding proposed changes of status in the Far East.

Just before Sato arrived in Washington, Senator Byrd succeeded in tacking an amendment to a State Department appropriation bill concerning Okinawa. The Byrd amendment read: "It is the sense of Congress that the President shall not enter into any agreement or understanding, the effect of which would be to change the status of any territory referred to Article 3 of the Treaty of Peace with Japan, without the advice and consent of the Senate."

Since Okinawa is, in Byrd's words, "our most important single military base complex in the Far East," it would be in Japan's own interest for the U. S. to retain the use of it as long as the Soviets maintain their clamp on the Kuriles at the other end of the Japanese homeland.

If post-World War II balance of power arrangements affecting Japan are to be abrogated, why not a three-power talk about "reversions"? Must the U. S. always be the patsy while Brezhnev and Kosygin never give up anything that protects their interests?

Credibility Problems Noted In Washington

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon has a credibility problem with businessmen. Although many of them respect and support him in other matters, many of them also pass off his promises, warnings, and exhortations about inflation.

In short, a lot of them just don't believe he can lick inflation for a long time to come, maybe not even before the 1972 elections.

Recession Feared

This is hardly the fault of administration officials, who have been so hardnosed about this slowdown program that some critics now are screeching not just recession but severe recession.

Oblivious to it, their hopes and plans bolstered by private forecasters, many businessmen continue to spend as if there were to be no slowdown at all.

"If prices are high now," says the corporation president in a typical conversation, "then they'll be higher tomorrow. Let's build that new plant now and save ourselves some money."

Treasurer Agrees

The treasurer comments: "Frankly, I think you might be right. All this anti-inflation business doesn't seem to be slowing things any. If we don't get on with our spending we're going to be left holding the bag."

No wonder Nixon felt obliged to rely on the once disdained jawbone technique. Calling close to 2,000 businessmen to Washington Friday, he spoke to them bluntly and directly:

"Those who bet on inflation will lose their bet and those who bet on a cooling of the economy will win their bet."

The President's chief economic adviser, Paul McCracken, explained to the assemblage that he understood why some businessmen believed that at the first sign of a slowdown the government would pump up the economy again.

Growth Slowdown Eyed

That's the way it has been done in the past, he said, but that doesn't mean it will be done in the future. In fact, McCracken told the businessmen that future growth won't be permitted to resume at a rate that might threaten inflation.

Labor Secretary George P. Shultz added his jawbone to the chorus, advising the businessmen that their profits would be squeezed and that those who make contracts at the same rate a year or two from now will be taking a serious risk.

Inflation Here To Stay

Meanwhile, at least one widely followed private economic consultant spreads the belief that inflation is here to stay and that the way for businessmen to beat it is to spend for new plants and more efficient equipment.

And at a meeting thousands of miles away in Phoenix, Ariz., held simultaneously with the President's meeting, an official of the Federal Reserve System underscored his independence of the party line.

Darryl R. Francis, president of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank, said his studies indicate that at least three years will be needed to eliminate a significant portion of price inflation.

Opening lead—kings of hearts.

A squeeze at trick two is extremely rare, but there is no doubt that such a squeeze can be just as effective early in the play as later on.

Here is an unusual case where East was caught in a squeeze immediately after West had won the first trick with the king of hearts and continued with the queen.

Declarer discarded a diamond from dummy and East could not safely part with any card in his hand. Actually, he discarded a diamond, but it would not have mattered had he discarded anything else.

South won the queen of hearts with the ace, cashed the ace of spades, then played the A-K and another club, West showing out. When declarer now cashed dummy's K-Q of spades, discarding a heart and a diamond as West again showed out, this became the position:

North

West

South
♦ A Q J 7 6

East's original distribution was now an open book. He had shown up with four spades, one heart and four clubs — and hence had started with exactly four diamonds.

Armed with this knowledge, declarer led a diamond, went up with the ace, caught West's king, and thus made the slam.

South realized that a diamond finesse would be absolutely pointless, since he could make only two more tricks even if the finesse succeeded. By going up with the ace, he not only assured himself of those two tricks, but also gave himself a chance for all five tricks if by any chance West's only diamond proved to be the king.

GI's 'Love Potions' Has Wife In Frenzy

Dear Ann Landers: My husband returned from Vietnam three weeks ago. We had been married four years when he left and the "honeymoon" aspects of our sex life ended long before he went overseas. When he returned I didn't know what to expect. I reasoned that our long separation might make him especially eager but I also heard that some wives experienced the opposite reaction which they attributed to exhaustion, change of climate, trauma and so on.

Since my husband's return, he has been as randy as a billy goat. I am affectionate by nature and I love to be loved, but this is ridiculous. Last night he confided the secret of his "revitalization." In Vietnam he had heard ground-up reindeer horns were used for centuries as a male aphrodisiac. He bought several pounds of the stuff after some of his buddies reported "great results."

I don't know what to make of it. I've never believed in love potions, but now I'm beginning to wonder if there isn't something to it. Please ask your medical consultants about reindeer horns and let me know what you learn. I am — Exhausted in Garden City.

Dear Ex: My medical consultants inform me that once the horns are off the reindeer they are useless — except for decorating walls. Love potions have been a flourishing racket since The Year One. They are all phony. But, so long as your husband believes in the "magic" it will work, because all sexual activity is generated in the mind. So, relax, dear and accept the fact that Dancer and Prancer and Donner and Blitzen are going to be a part of your life for a while. And a Merry Christmas to you!

Dear Ann Landers: Our son is one of the thousands of young people who ran away from home after becoming involved with narcotics. I don't know what to do or where to turn. All my efforts have been in vain. Every road has lead to a dead end. You are my last hope. Please print this letter I have written to him. Perhaps he will see it. When he was home he read your column faithfully. Thank you and God bless you, Ann.

Dear Son: Every night I kneel by the bed in your empty room and pray that somehow, through some miracle, your eyes will be opened to the dangers of the life you have chosen. You left a loving home, parents, brothers and sisters, school and close friends. We felt you slipping away, but we were unable to reach you.

We are deeply concerned not only for your health and safety, but for your life. Every day dozens of young people like you are found dead. Whenever we read of such a tragedy we wonder if the "unidentified" boy is you.

We love you and want you to come home. We will try hard to help you in every way. Please, before it is too late, call us collect. Let us know where you are. We will get on the next plane and come for you. No questions asked. — Your Mother and Dad

Dear Mother and Dad: Here is your letter and you can be sure it will be read by many runaways. I hope and pray your son sees your plea and responds. Please let me know if this letter produces results.

Women Control Christmas 1885

A picture of a beautiful woman on a current Christmas card would seem inappropriate to many. But feminine beauty enjoyed great popularity in Christmas cards during the late 1880's.

Until 1880, children and elderly women were most often pictured. Or, if adult young women did appear, they were shown as "tenders of the hearth," with their husbands, children or pets.

Later, classic Greek and Roman feminine figures were used to convey ideals of feeling and beauty.

Artists of the Royal Academy in London began the new fashion for using contemporary women in their Christmas card illustrations in 1881. One of the earliest of these was designed by W. F. Yeames and showed a richly-gowned young woman asleep in a chair, with winged cupids in a golden cage.

In 1885, fashion figures of elegant women were a typical subject of Christmas cards. An example is a Louis Prang card from the Norcross Historical Collection.

Mr. Prang, who published the best-known early greeting cards in the U. S., conducted a Christmas card competition. The $1,000 first prize was won by Elihu Vedder, a well-known American artist.

The model for his successful illustration was his wife, and the inscription read, in part, "Thy own wish wish I thee in every place."

APPEALING FAMILY GROUP is subject of the 1885 Louis Prang Christmas card shown here. Illustration of the mother marks trend of 1880's greeting cards, which often pictured attractive young women. This card is from the Norcross Historical Collection.

JUST IN TIME FOR THE holiday season are these decorating ideas which can be made at home. Articles include, a pixie doll made from felt and foam materials; a gay Christmas wreath made of computer cards, a centerpiece constructed from plastic medicine cups and a handmade tree ornament featuring pins, jewelry and sequins. These articles were made by area extension hommakrs. (Daily Prss Photo)

Christmastime Made Brighter By Commerce

The commercialization of Christmas is frequently a cause of complaint by the persons who would, as they say, "put Christ back into Christmas." In America, particularly, it seems the holidays have become something less than holy.

Yet the show that accompanies the observance of Christmas in the United States is based on a continuing and traditional belief in the meaning of Christmas — although Santa Claus, "Jingle Bells" and the emphasis on gifts may seem far distant from the humbleness of Christ's birth in a manger.

There is the same old joy in "Merry Christmas to All" that ever was in centuries past, and Scrooge brought happiness to Tiny Tim with material gifts that symbolized love and kindness.

Preparations to make Christmas the cheeriest of the year begin long before Christmas, not only in the home, but in churches, in factories, in Christmas savings clubs, and in the hearts of the people.

Then soon after Thanksgiving there is a flowering of holiday sentiment that shows in the decorations in store windows, the lighted streets, the bright gleam of tinsel, and in trees whose green spires lead the eye upward and lift the spirit. Commercialization? Perhaps. Yet the Christmas celebration helps many thousands of persons to make a living.

And as Christians would have it, the blessings of Christmas are enjoyed throughout the world.

Decorative glass from Germany and Italy, cameras from Japan and candles from Mexico, carved wood from India and woolen knitwear from Iceland, Eskimo ivory carving and Kenya semi-precious gems— these are but some of the gifts that brighten Christmas not only for those who receive but for those who make them also.

American factories hum merrily along, turning out millions of items for Christmas. There are toys and neckties, bourbon and sports cars, fruit cake and candy.

Decorations, colored papers, seals, greeting cards. Name any holiday aspect almost and you have named a producer whose contribution will help brighten Christmas for someone.

Last but certainly not least is the Christmas tree, sometimes a living plant cut from the northern woods or a tree farm; and sometimes that relatively imperishable but lifeless specimen— the tree made of plastic, metal and other durable substances.

Yes, Christmas is big busines, down to the tree itself.

In Holiday Mood, Carols Tell Story Of Reverence And Joy

"O come, all ye faithful, joyful and triumphant,
O come ye, O come ye to Bethlehem!
Come and behold Him, born
the King of angels!"

"Adeste Fideles" or "Jingle, Bells," "Silent Night" or "White Christmas" — across the years, hymns, carols and songs have been mankind's way of expressing the joy of Christmas.

From simple melodies sung in the family circle to the majesty of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," music and song seem to be the natural way to celebrate Christmas.

Singing First Carol

Singing of the first Christmas carol is attributed to St. Francis of Assisi and his followers, in the 13th century.

St. Francis arranged a Nativity scene and led the singing of songs of praise to the Christ Child.

About Many Things

Subjects and themes for early carols were many and varied.

English people sang of the holly and the ivy and the wassail bowl. More religious in theme were the English songs traditionally sung between scenes of mystery and miracle plays.

In Germany, France and Belgium, the visit of the Magi was a popular theme for carols.

Other carols told stories from the Bible or legends from nature.

Luther Led Way

From the 15th to the 18th century, Christmas music found a particularly eager audience in Germany. Martin Luther, who believed music was a form of worship, helped to encourage the composition and performance of Christmas hymns.

Luther himself wrote the words for "Away in a Manger," and the music for "Unto Us a Boy Is Born" and "Good News from Heaven." Grouped into a choir, his children sang these songs.

Christmas Outlawed

The joyous songs of Christmas fell upon hard times in 17th century England. An act of Parliament, in 1644, forbade the observanc of Christmas as a feast day.

Long after the custom of Christmas was revived, the art of carol singing languished.

A happy change occurred when, in 1719, Dr. Isaac Watts wrote and introduced to his congregation the carol, "Joy to the World." This was the forerunner of modern Christmas carols.

For Concert Halls

Christmas music for the concert halls began to be created after the Reformation.

Italy introduced the Christmas concerto, during the 17th and 18th centuries. Corelli's "Christmas Concerto" is perhaps the best known of this kind of Christmas music.

In Puritan England, the oratorio became a popular form of music, thought to represent the righteousness in man. Handel's "Messiah" was performed and admired for this expression of pious sentiment, with little consideration for its relationship to the story of the Nativity.

It was not until about 1900 that "The Messiah" began to be performed primarily at Christmas time.

In America

In America, the composition of carols began to flourish during the 1800's, and three favorite carols sung today are from that period.

"It Came upon a Midnight Clear," one of the earliest American carols, was written by the Rev. Edmund H. Sears (1810-1876) as a poem. It was later set to music.

"We Three Kings of Orient Are," was first published in 1859. The Rev. John Henry Hopkins, Jr., wrote both the words and the music.

"O Little Town of Bethlehem" was written by Bishop Phillips Brooks in 1868, as an expression of his feelings after a visit to Bethlehem.

Music for the carol has been attributed to Lewis H. Redner, an American organist, and also to a tune from early English hymnals.

HANGING MISTLETOE

Hanging mistletoe in the home is a tradition which orginated with Druid priests. These ancients believed the plant was a sign of peace and hope.

STAND ANGELS IN A ROW on a mantel shelf or use them for table decorations. The figures are seven inches high and cleverly cut, folded and pasted from stiff paper so that wings and song books stand out. Pattern 320. which gives fullsize guides and directions, is 50c. This pattern also is one of four in the Indoor Christmas Decoration Packet No. 43 — all for $1.50.

'Holly-Wreath' Eyes A Bother?

Don't let eyes look like holly wreaths!

During the height of the social season, when there may be too much to drink and eat, and not enough time to get sufficient rest, the red-eyed look can be tell-tale.

Men aren't the only sufferers from fiery eyes! But most males don't use the cosmetic aids to help them that women use.

Yet, while ladies tend to think of makeup as a mask, the fact is that no amount of cosmetics will conceal dull, tired or bloodshot eyes. On the contrary! Makeup emphasizes the appearance of eyes.

If your eyes are tired, or look dull from too much work or play, you can get relief in less than a minute with soothing eye drops.

Heavy eye-makeups also tend to irritate eyes. So it's a sound idea to apply drops before putting on eye makeup—and after removing it.

RELIGIOUS JEWELRY

With Christmas a season of deep religious meaning, there is no more important gift at this time of year than fine religious jewelry.

Five Centuries Of Christmas Timing

Imagine yourself as a Christmas shopper in the Fifteenth Century.

The disadvantages only begin with not having "wheels" to take you where you want to shop. Let's say you have decided to present that special person in your life with the gift of a timepiece. Do you know what it would have been? A portable sundial!

Now you progress to the Sixteenth Century. A Yuletide gift of time for your loved one might have been a clock if you were very wealthy, but this is before the pendulum was introduced, and you would have needed a sundial along with it to keep the clock reasonably on time!

First Watch

The first watch was also invented in the Sixteenth Century. It was not exactly a watch as you know it today. Referred to as a Musk-Ball the watch of the 1500s was spherical in shape, awkwardly large, and pierced to give off the scent of perfumed musk which was carried in the case.

The noblemen and dandies of that era, who could afford watches, wore them on chains around their necks and apparently liked the idea of perfume. If Musk-Balls were still in vogue, you could probably forego the gift-wrap and just camouflage the present by placing it among the ornaments on the branch of the Christmas tree!

Watches of the Sixteenth Century, though still a great novelty, offered many more conveniences than their forerunners. To tell time in the dark, tiny raised knobs above each numeral enabled the owner to "feel the hour" without lighting a candle. Then came the addition of a minute hand in 1675.

By the Eighteenth Century you could have given a watch as a Christmas present with a second hand. This feature had been widely introduced to give doctors an accurate means of measuring the pulse. Your present, of course, would have also included a key for winding.

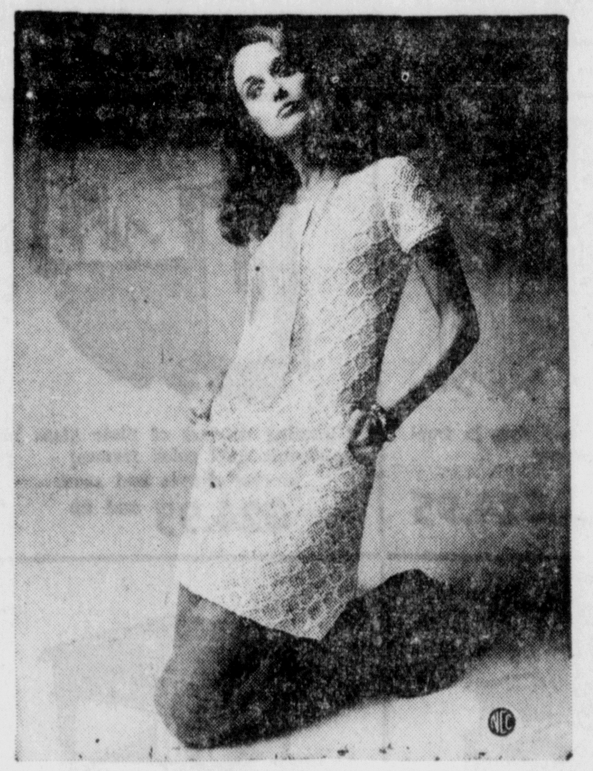
You could not have given a watch for the wrist as a Christmas present until the early part of the Ninteenth century.

The first wristwatch was developed for soldiers in the front lines during World War I because the routine of unbuttoning the watch pocket and taking out the watch to see the time was inconvenient.

Throughout the Twentieth Century, technologists have worked towards perfecting the delicate mechanism of the watch for greater accuracy and convenience.

Since the Fifteenth Century, time has certainly come a long way! Today, for Christmas, 1969, you can give your loved one the ultimate in accurate timekeeping — an electric.

It never has to be wound, on or off the wrist. Just turn it on, it will keep accurate time for a year, powered by a tiny replaceable energy cell.



IN FASHION'S ORBIT — The free-wheeling look of fashion 1970 is captured in this T-shirt dress of diamond-patterned cotton crochet. Lightweight and comfortable as only cotton can be, the dress comes in a natural string-color.
